CHINESE HIT FRENCH ZONE IN SHANGHAI

Nationalist Gunboat
Attempts to Bombard Arsenal, but Missiles Fall in Nearby Concession.

ROUBLE MAKERS DAMAGE TO TWO AMERICAN HOMES

Executions in City Continue, and Some Terrorized Strikers Return to Their Jobs.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 22.—The French concession district of this city was shelled today by a nationalist gunboat which attempted to bombard the arsenal, about one mile from the French concession, landing part of the arsenal.

No foreigners were injured, although the homes of two Americans were damaged. Two Chinese were killed.

The guns of the Chinese vessel were defective, causing the shells to drop short of the Kiangnan arsenal, which is in an isolated section along the Whangpoo River and south of the French concession and the native city, which is on each shore.

Five shells fell in the French concession and five in the native city.

MAURICE KETTEN

Two Chinese gunboats, the Kiangnan and the Kiangnan, prevented from taking part in the bombardment by two French gunboats, the Alerte and the Name. The French warships used their guns upon the Chinese gunboats, and did not fire.

The Chinese gunboats, it was learned on good authority, had used to betray Marshal Sun Chuan-fang, ruler of Guangxi province, and turn themselves over to the Nationalists (Cantonians), who are directing a campaign against Shanghai. Their plan was to steam up the Whangpoo River to join the Nationalist forces above Shanghai.

While the bombardment was in progress the authorities of the French concession called out all volunteer and police forces, and armed with machine guns every house on the native city to the French concession.

The French cruiser Jules Michel, with an Admiral aboard, took part in the affair, but the French authorities took every precaution to safeguard the lives and property of their nationals.

The American residences damaged were those of William R. F. W. Schlobohm, the residence of R. T. Wade and Mrs. R. Harris Briggs, subjects, and the French Club, also were hit and the children fled from their home. A shell exploded in a bedroom of the Schlobohm residence.

Shanghai is divided into three parts—the native city, over which the Chinese have complete authority; the French concession; and the international settlement, into which the foreign concessions except that of France are included.

Rebuckings continue. The beatings of strike agitators continued here today, although of much smaller scale than on Saturday and Sunday, when about 30 members of the present industrial committee were executed by Marshal Sun-Chuan-fang's officials, in an effort to keep down the demonstration.

The beatings have been effective in bringing strikers back to work, although the native has greatly increased the activities of the agitators, who now are directing the strike from the international settlement.

As long as they remain in that settlement they have a degree of immunity because police of the native city have no jurisdiction in the foreign zone and the practice of international settlement officials has been to refrain from person arrest and for political activities.

Persons executed are taken on poles on the main street between the French concession and the native part of the city as a warning to agitators.

It is estimated that there still are about 100 strike agitators in the international settlement, and with nearly all service with and nearly all running, the situation is a very serious one.

Warning to Postal Employees. The Pao-Ching, Marshal Sun's domestic commissioner for Shanghai, issued a proclamation which was read at the main postoffice, declaring that any employee who

Coolidge Extols Washington As a Practical Business Man; Europe Hears Speech by Radio

LONDON, PARIS AND BERLIN
HEAR COOLIDGE'S SPEECH
DISTINCTLY BY RADIO

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—President Coolidge's speech in Washington today came in "clear and strong" in Berlin, said a cablegram received by the National Broadcasting Co. this afternoon.

The speech was received by station HES in Berlin on the 22-meter short-wave length from Schenectady, N. Y.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—President Coolidge's address was heard remarkably well, judging from reports received from radio listeners up to 6 p. m. Even owners of crystal sets could hear on the President's speech, as it was picked up from across the Atlantic and rebroadcast from the high power stations of the British Broadcasting Co.

HOUSE COMMITTEE REFUSES IMMUNITY TO OIL WITNESSES

By Tie Vote Rejects Measure Asked for by Government Attorneys in Sinclair Case.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—By a vote of 9 to 9, the House Judiciary Committee today failed to approve a bill which would have granted immunity to certain witnesses whose testimony is needed by Government special counsel in the Sinclair oil trial which will be resumed here April 25.

The bill, introduced by Chairman Graham, was drafted by Attorney General Cummings and Owen J. Roberts, counsel for the Government in the oil cases. In a letter to Graham, Roberts said the Attorney-General favored the bill and added: "As you are aware, where a claimant has a privilege against self-incrimination the courts are pretty helpless to compel his testimony, because they naturally give him the benefit of every doubt on the subject. It retards that of the Government, hoping for improvement."

POLITICIAN DIES SUDDENLY

R. K. Hynicka, Former Ohio
Committeeman, Succumbs.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 22.—R. K. Hynicka, 65 years old, former Ohio Republican National Committeeman, and for years a dominant figure in Ohio politics, died suddenly here last night of heart disease. He had been in failing health and came here this winter, hoping for improvement.

The body will be sent tonight to Lebanon, Pa., near which place he was born. Hynicka is survived by a widow, now in Los Angeles; a sister, two brothers and a daughter and granddaughter, of Lebanon.

Most Comprehensive Broadcasting Hook-Up Ever Attempted Is Used in Projecting Birthday Address to Congress.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Speaking in the historic chamber of the House of Representatives today President Coolidge extolled George Washington as a business man.

The largest radio hook-up ever attempted 42 stations, broadcast his words and stations KDKA at Pittsburgh, and WGY at Schenectady, carried the speech across the Atlantic.

The ceremony in the House today marked the formal opening of arrangements for the 200th celebration of Washington's birth to be held in the Capital in 1932.

A vice President Davies presided, with Speaker Longworth sitting to his left in front of the large American flag which has hung for many years back of the Speaker's platform. Chief Justice Taft and the associate Justices of the Supreme Court, in their black robes of office, sat in the front row facing the platform. The galleries were filled. Preceding the session, the United States Marine band played in the Capitol rotunda.

Disfranchisement Assembly

Shortly after noon the Senate, which this morning had listened to the reading of Washington's farewell address, was ushered to the Supreme Court Justices. House members sat behind them. Special places were given also to members of the cabinet and to a group of collateral descendants of Washington.

Major-General Sumner, chief of the Army General Staff; Admiral Eberle, chief of Naval Operations, and Major-General Lejeune, commander of the Marine Corps, attended in full dress uniform.

When the President entered the assembly rose and applauded Senator Fess of Ohio, chairman of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, then introduced the President.

Another rising ovation greeted the President as he began reading his speech from manuscript amid the clicking of a battery of cameras in the gallery.

Mr. Coolidge, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns of Boston, occupied seats in the presidential section of the gallery. Mrs. Coolidge wore a large black hat with a white crown and a fur-trimmed black coat adorned with a white rose.

The President was given close attention as he read but there was no applause until near the end, when he referred to Washington as the "directing spirit without which there would have been no independence, no union, no Constitution, and no republic."

There was prolonged applause at the conclusion. The address occupied a little more than 40 minutes.

"Washington was an idealist in the sense that he had a very high standard of private and public honor," Mr. Coolidge said. "He was a prophet to the extent of being able to forecast, with remarkable vision, the growth of the nation he founded and the changing conditions which it would meet. But essentially he was a very practical man. He analyzed the problems before him with a clear intellect. Having a thorough understanding he attacked them with courage and energy, with patience and persistence."

The True Washington. Declaring the facts of Washington's life, though a matter of record, were not easily accessible, the President said that many books had been written about him, "often scholarly and eloquent," had encountered the temptation to represent him as a heroic figure composed of superlatives and that the real man among men, "the human being common to all mortals, has been too much obscured and forgotten."

"When we regard him in this character," Mr. Coolidge continued, "and have reviewed his life, we find that he met his problems, we shall all the more understand and revere his true greatness. No great mystery surrounds him; he never relied on miracles. But he was a man endowed with what sense, with tireless industry, with a talent for taking infinite pains and with a mind able to understand the universal and eternal problems of mankind."

The President described Washington as a man who had a "national mind."

Warned Against Sectionalism. "He was consistently warning his countrymen of the danger of setting problems in accordance with sectional interests," Mr. Coolidge said. "His ideas in regard to the opening of our western territory were thought out primarily for the benefit of the nation. It has been

LETTERS SENT THROUGHOUT STATE

Campaign Being Conducted
From Sedalia by Head of Legislative Committee of the Association.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 22.—A statewide lobby is being organized by the State Teachers' Association and educational interests to work on the State Senate to pass Gov. Baker's nuisance bills, supplementing the political influence of the administration in Jefferson City.

It is the first time in many years that the school interests of the State have been brought into active lobbying to aid an administration in an effort to force through money-getting legislation.

In addition to the work of two representatives of teachers' organizations, who have been in Jefferson City much of the time since the Legislature convened, letters are being circulated to the various group committees of teachers urging them to organize to influence the Senate.

Letter Being Circulated.

A letter, which is being circulated among Senators, was signed by J. N. Crocker, Superintendent of Schools in Sedalia, and chairman of the Legislative Committee of the State Teachers' Association. It clearly indicated the methods to be used in the attempt to induce the Senate to pass the bill, which would place a 10 per cent tax on amusements. It follows:

"To the chairman, legislative committee in senatorial districts. Although the newspapers had buried House bill No. 1, it emerged from the grave by a vote of 65 to 56 in the House. The work of the Missouri State Teachers' Association was no small factor in securing this measure. Now this bill goes to the Senate where it is in great danger unless we do our part. Let's get parent-teachers' associations, circles, community teachers' associations, friends of little children and everybody to work in our districts to impress the Senate with the importance of more revenue. It is necessary to work hard and fast. Reach them by wire, by special delivery, by personal interview, by any means, but reach them with the message that you are counting upon them to do their duty. May I hear from you relative to your work?"

Estimates of Proposed Taxes. As had been pointed out, the proposed nuisance taxes would add approximately $9,000,000 to the revenues of the State, one-half of which would go to the grade and high schools, and one-half to the State institutions for higher education. This would relieve the general revenues of several million drain in the biennial period and would thus provide a large additional sum for salaries and expenditures in the various State departments.

University's Request for $6,528,211. Request of the University of Missouri for appropriations totaling $6,528,211 for maintenance and necessary extensions during the biennial period of 1927, and 1928 were slashed to $2,490,668, a reduction of $4,037,543. In a report prepared today by the House Appropriations Committee, which will be drafted into the university appropriation bill. The Legislature appropriated $2,824,477 for the university for the biennial period of 1926-1927.

Representative F. B. Meyer of Gasconade County, chairman of the committee, declared the severe trimming was necessary because of an anticipated shortage of revenues. The appropriations would be increased, he said, if pending taxation increase bills were passed by the Legislature.

This move is generally understood to be an effort to compel the Democratic majority in the Senate to pass Gov. Baker's nuisance tax.

'SHERIFF $150' ON COST LIST SEIZED IN RAID ON STILL

In Same Notebook, Itemized Record, Apparently of Distilling Batch of Alcohol, Totals $1852.

"Sheriff, $150" and "Police, $100" are notations which appear in itemized lists pencilled in a little red leather notebook which James Dillon, group chief of Federal prohibition agents here, found in the upper right-hand vest pocket of a man arrested last Friday during a St. Louis County still raid.

Dillon opened the notebook at random today in the presence of newspaper reporters at the Federal Building. He said he was investigating to ascertain the meaning of the listed notations which appeared to be memoranda of expenses involved in operating a still.

Record of Expenses.

List on one page were 14 items: Machine, $500. Tanks, $150. Boiler, $50. Pumps, $100. Rep. bill, $29.80. Medicine, $7.70. Corn, $2.40. Bag, $200. Transport, $72. Sheriff, $150. Hard, $8. Harp pump, $19. "Police $100."

Twelve items listed on the facing page total $1852.80 and appeared to be the cost of running off one batch of alcohol. They were: Sugar and yeast, $1245.05. Tobacco and lime, $70.80. Hard, $10. Sheriff, $16.25. Police, $100. Hard, $9. Mrs. Coolidge, $1245.05. B. S. H., $25. Transport, $100. Cooking, $86.60. Truck, $85.

The records on other pages of the notebook, Dillon said, were much the same as the ones he exhibited. The book was taken from a man who said he was Bird S. Hurt of Litchfield Heights, arrested with four others in a house on Mehl avenue, three-fourths of a mile from the old Florissant road.

Refuse to Explain Notebook. The raid was made with a search warrant after prohibition agents had smelled alcohol fumes in the neighborhood. A still was in operation when the raiders entered, Dillon related, and two men, Charles Still and Louis Oldani, were working about the apparatus. While the still and a quantity of mash and alcohol were being destroyed two machines drew up and three men entered the house. They were identified as Bird S. Hurt, Charles Still and John Cherina, two of whom were arrested and with the two others charged in warrants with violating the liquor laws.

The notebook was found when Hurt was arrested at the Federal Building. He refused to offer any explanation of the notations and denied he knew anything about the Mehl avenue still.

Premier Proposes to Act Under

PARIS, Feb. 22.—Premier Poincaré, as was indicated last week, has proposed to the American Government that France pay the first installment under the Washington debt funding accord before it is ratified by the French Chamber of Deputies today in a letter in which he said the proposition was similar to that made to Great Britain, and he hoped it would be accepted.

The Premier said the agreement with London, which was provisional and covered one year, was made on the understanding of the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, Winston Churchill. He regarded the arrangement as favorable for France, because the obligations it covered were payable on demand.

JOHN D. PLAYS GOLF FOR 'KEEPS' AGAINST 3 WOMAN ARCHERS

Skill, Then Tries Shot With

By the Associated Press.
ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Feb. 22.—John D. Rockefeller staked some of his shiny new dimes yesterday, pitting his skill at golf against the accuracy of woman archers. The aged oil king and two friends played for their loaves with driver, iron and putter, while the women used bows and arrows.

When the women had won, two up and one to play, Rockefeller was in a good humor, but dissatisfied. "Victors generally grant a return match," he said. "I trust you ladies will favor us with a chance for revenge." The women smilingly agreed.

"Let me see that bow and arrow," he said to Mrs. Charles S. Pike of Detroit, champion of the woman archers of Florida. He took a determined stance and loosed an arrow at a balloon. He missed by two feet. Then, taking note of a smiling gallery, he remarked apologetically: "You see, I can't even hit a balloon."

He played a fancy game with his woods and irons. With J. P. Whitten of Cleveland and J. W. Dyke of Philadelphia, he set out at a fast pace, after yielding to a moment of hesitancy.

Mrs. Pike, with Mrs. Mortimer Day of Morristown, N. J., and Mrs. Dorothy Johnston of Bedford Springs, Pa., won the first hole. Rockefeller passed out the shiny dimes. On the next hole the dimes were returned when he nonchalantly holed a 12-foot putt.

Seaplane Had Refused to Rise Under Weight of Fuel—Hop-Off Made Af-

By the Associated Press.
PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, Feb. 22.—Commander Francesco de Pinedo, Italian aviator, arrived at Port Natal, Brazil, at 1:20 o'clock this afternoon from Porto Praya, Cape Verde Islands. The distance is about 1700 miles.

De Pinedo took the air in his seaplane, Santa Maria, at Port Canico, about 12 miles from Porto Praya, at 1:10 o'clock this morning.

He had made several attempts the last few days to start, but he could not get the plane to rise because of the weight of the fuel. Before he left this morning he lightened the weight considerably.

After his arrival at Port Natal, Commander de Pinedo returned to Fernando Noronha, tying up there at 4:05 this afternoon.

De Pinedo flying over four continents for "Glory of Fascism."

Commander de Pinedo is on a four-continent aeronautical expedition "for the glory of Fascist Italy." He started from Cagliari, Sardinia, Feb. 14, and the same day reached Rabat, French Morocco, in a 1000-mile hop. Next day he flew 1000 miles to Villa Cisneros, West Africa, and then to Bolama, Portuguese Guinea, whence he planned to fly direct across the Atlantic to Port Natal, Brazil. But this plan was abandoned because the plane refused to rise with the heavy load of fuel required.

Changing his plans, he flew to Dakar, French Senegal, and thence 300 miles to the Cape Verde Islands, arriving there last Saturday morning.

After reaching the Brazilian coast the itinerary of the Santa Maria calls for stops at Jamaica, Cuba, New Orleans, St. Louis, Chicago and New York.

Plans of Mar. Tadeo Larrea, a Uruguayan aviator, for a flight across the ocean from Marina Di Pisa, Italy, to Montevideo, Uruguay, were revealed soon after the start of De Pinedo from Sardinia.

The Uruguayan flyer is now at Malaga, Spain, having reached there in two hops from Marina Di Pisa.

Other Long-Distance Hops. De Pinedo's flight, from Porto Praya, Cape Verde Islands, to Port Natal, Brazil, represents one of the most notable air passages of the South Atlantic in history.

Last year Commander Ramon Franco, Spanish aviator, and three companions made the first flight from Europe to South America. Franco started from Palos, Spain, on Jan. 22, 1926. Intermediate stops were made at the Canary Islands (872 miles), Cape Verde Islands (1100 miles), the Island of Fernando Noronha, Brazil (1482 miles) and Pernambuco, Brazil (29 miles). Buenos Aires was reached on Feb. 10, 1926.

Another notable long-distance flight made last year was that of Sir Alan C. Cobham, from London to Melbourne, Australia, and returned. Intermediate landings were made at Baghdad, Calcutta, Rangoon, and other cities. The total flight distance was 26,000 miles and the flying time 320 hours.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—An other proposal to amend the prohibition amendment was put forward today by Senator Edge (Rep., New Jersey), who declared he would press it to a vote at the first session of the Seventeenth Congress.

He offered a joint resolution an addition to the eighteenth amendment permitting the states to manufacture and distribute intoxicants, but prohibiting the interstate shipment.

SENATE KILLS ANOTHER BILL FOR CRIMINAL CODE REFORM

Measure Sought Permission to Prosecute to Cross-Examine Defendant or Wife.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 22.—The wrecking of the criminal code reform program of the Missouri Association for Criminal Justice was continued in the Senate today. After arguments for two hours, the Senate killed a bill which sought to permit the State's Attorney to cross-examine a defendant or wife, if placed on the witness stand upon any matter. The bill was considered one of the most important of the entire program.

Each criminal code bill sought a special reform in criminal procedure. It has been killed as it was reached on the calendar. The only measures advocated by the association to reach enactment being those which in no manner interfered with criminal law in their practice of obtaining the release of prisoners on technicalities.

The Senate yesterday afternoon engaged three of the bills, concerning the keeping of records and the third providing for execution by electricity instead of hanging, and providing that all executions should be in the State penitentiary.

MAN FORBIDDEN TO SPEAK. GERMANS HANGS HIMSELF. Note to Son Reads, "What You Did Me Dry Me to My Death."

By the Associated Press. LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 22.—Herman F. Bestmann Sr., 76 years old, once a wealthy tavern keeper in Germany who came here 16 years with his son after the war, killed himself because he could not adjust himself to new surroundings. Having lost all his money, he hanged himself in his room yesterday.

"What you told me drives me to my death. You are my murderer," read a note addressed to his son. The son, Herman F. Bestmann Jr., a contractor, told police he had objected to German being spoken in his home. When his father came here he brought along his fourth wife. The pair had been in the habit of entertaining German friends in the son's home.

The son added that his father had been despondent for some time and that his eyesight had been failing.

Compulsory Voting Proposed. JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 22.—All persons eligible to vote in all elections, under a bill introduced in the Senate today by Senator William F. Depeuer (Rep.), St. Louis. A penalty of $25 is provided for failure to vote. Emphasis is made for illness, physical disability or other necessary absence.

By the Associated Press. JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 22.—The early part of 1926 the recall movement was stimulated by the action of Mayor Miller in removing Edward E. Wall from the office of Director of Public Utilities.

A large list of signatures was obtained by canvassers, some of whom were paid 10 cents a name. Some of whom worked for the effect that more than 100,000 signatures had been obtained. Then came the registration and revision preliminary to last fall's election, and the movement was down.

At a time when it was still possible to file the petitions in the November election, a meeting, attended by United States Senator Williams, Heil, former Mayor Kiel and a few others, was held at Col. Koel's home in South St. to meet the recall movement.

At that meeting Williams stated that the recall movement would not be held in November, as it would impair his chances in the November election. He promised to contribute to the recall movement and it has been stated that he had given $1000, and would have given more, but for the lack of income and contributions from others.

Announcing the postponement of the recall move last fall, Heil named Philip N. Moore, civil engineer, and Otto F. Karbe, lawyer, as being backers of the recall movement. Heil said at that time the recall movement was "not a political football."

Parade of 6000 Boy Scouts And Inspirational Program Mark Washington's Birthday

Services at Scottish Rite Cathedral Chief Observance of Holiday in St. Louis—Many Business Houses Closed.

Six thousand boy scouts of St. Louis and St. Louis County marched down Lindell boulevard in a colorful parade this morning and into the Scottish Rite Cathedral for an inspirational and patriotic program which was the principal observance here of George Washington's birthday.

Today is a legal holiday, and schools, banks, exchanges, public offices, courts, the postoffice and many business houses were closed. Most downtown stores and offices were open, however. There was no regular mail delivery and restricted collection. Street cars, busses, homes and business places displayed the flag.

From the time of their assembly at Kingshighway and Lindell boulevard till they were seated, virtually filling the Scottish Rite Cathedral, at 2627 Lindell, the Boy Scouts presented a brilliant and stirring spectacle. It was designed as a symbolic and patriotic program. Every sidewalk converging at the gathering place, a picturesque intersection in itself, was filled by the happy lads. Traffic congestion, and a concentration of policemen only added to the gaiety of the scene. There were comparatively few spectators along the line of march.

Parade Passes in 20 Minutes. It required 20 minutes for the head of the parade to cover the nine blocks to the cathedral, and 20 minutes was required in passing the traditional given point. The long column, with the boys in lines of four, and with banners waving from one end to the other, filled almost the whole route, just before the leaders reached the Scout Executive Committee, comprising business men, lined up opposite the cathedral to take the salute.

Mounted policemen led, followed by Scout Commissioner H. D. McBride and his aids, foot. Col. McBride and many of the troop scoutmasters who accompanied the boys wore trim khaki. The boys manifested much originality in dress.

Time was when a Boy Scout felt himself out of the running if he lacked a blouse and complete uniform of khaki exactly like his mates. Today, however, all manner of bright accessories were displayed. A favorite was the gay lumberjack shirt. Red sweaters were in evidence, too. Some troops were distinguished by colored kerchiefs slung around the neck. Some of the newer members lacked uniforms.

National Colors at Head. Near the head of the line and in three other sections were four groups of color bearers carrying the national flag. About 150 flags were thus massed. Each troop was headed by its own banner, and each patrol, or unit within a troop, had its guidon. Patrols are named for bears, eagles, moose and the like, and the standards bore appropriate pictures. Scattered through the column were a number of drum and bugle corps which provided creditable martial airs.

If the boys, whose ages ranged from 12 to 18, mostly nearer 12, were carefree and noisy as they assembled, they were excessively earnest as they marched. Urged by patrol leaders and scoutmasters, they kept step and held eyes front. Nearly all of the 240 troops of city and county, many of which are under the auspices of churches of all denominations, were represented. The opinion of the Court of Appeals, written by Commissioner Walter Bennick, held that if Van Graafeiland was the agent he sold belonged to him, he could have sold it without a permit or license.

The case was based on Van Graafeiland's alleged offer of securities of the Perpetual Realty Corporation for sale through the Van Luman Co., a corporation previously organized to sell the stock of the Marigold Oil Co. Van Graafeiland, who was president of River View Club, was president of both the Perpetual and Van Luman companies.

Will Limit Firearms Sales. Bill Proposes Permit System for Manufacture of Machine Guns. WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Sale of machine guns and other high-powered weapons would be closely guarded by the Government to prevent their falling into the hands of criminals, under a bill drafted by Representative Bacon (Rep.) of New York.

His measure would establish a permit system on firearms manufactured in the United States and an "absolute embargo" on imports of weapons except those to be used by the armed forces of the Government and by Federal and local police. Sporting weapons would be excluded.

Pension Bill Passed by House. WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—A bill to grant a flat $50 monthly pension to all widows and remarried widows of Civil War veterans has been passed unanimously by the House and sent to the Senate.

C. P. VAN GRAAFEILAND CASE REMANDED FOR NEW TRIAL

Appellate Court Reverses Conviction of Violation of State "Blue Sky" Law.

The St. Louis Court of Appeals yesterday reversed and remanded for retrial the case of Charles P. Van Graafeiland, broker, capitalist and former president of River View Club, who was convicted by a jury and fined $5500 a year ago for violation of the Missouri "blue sky" law in selling securities without a permit.

The Court held that the lower court erred when the trial judge, in his instructions to the jury, assumed that Van Graafeiland acted as agent in the selling the securities, instead of leaving this point to be determined by the jury. Van Graafeiland's defense was that the securities were his personal property and that he sold them to complainants as a personal proposition.

The opinion of the Court of Appeals, written by Commissioner Walter Bennick, held that if Van Graafeiland was the agent he sold belonged to him, he could have sold it without a permit or license.

The case was based on Van Graafeiland's alleged offer of securities of the Perpetual Realty Corporation for sale through the Van Luman Co., a corporation previously organized to sell the stock of the Marigold Oil Co. Van Graafeiland, who was president of River View Club, was president of both the Perpetual and Van Luman companies.

Will Limit Firearms Sales. Bill Proposes Permit System for Manufacture of Machine Guns. WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Sale of machine guns and other high-powered weapons would be closely guarded by the Government to prevent their falling into the hands of criminals, under a bill drafted by Representative Bacon (Rep.) of New York.

DR. CORTEZ ENLOE IS FIRST WITNESS IN PRISON INQUIRY

Senate Investigation of Charges of Corruption in Operation of Penitentiary Begun.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 22.—Dr. Cortez F. Enloe, friend and adviser of Gov. Baker and director of the State Penitentiary, was the first witness called when a special Senate committee at 2:15 p. m. today began an investigation of charges of corruption and mismanagement in the operation of the State Penitentiary.

Before Enloe took the stand, former State Senator Irwin announced to the committee that he had been retained as counsel for W. B. McGregg, a Democrat, and submitted a prepared statement in which his client took responsibility for the management of industries within the prison walls.

Dr. Enloe, short and youthful looking, with tortoiseshell glasses, was questioned by Senator Hollingsworth about details of prison management and the personnel of the prison clerical forces.

Members of the Penitentiary Board will be permitted to have counsel in an advisory capacity during the hearings, but the lawyers will not be permitted to cross-examine witnesses, the committee decided in an executive meeting this morning.

The inquiry touches particularly the conduct of the financial affairs of the Missouri penitentiary, about which there have been numerous allegations of irregularities. On the result of the committee's deliberations depend the confirmation of the appointments of McGregg and Enloe as well as of the other members of the board.

In appointing the committee last Friday, Senator Cave, acting president of the Senate, said that it would sift to the bottom reports that products manufactured in the penitentiary had been sold to favored contractors at less than market prices, and that prices over those of the market had been paid by the penitentiary for materials.

There is no provision in the resolution for an audit of the penitentiary books which appeared a possibility almost two months ago when William K. Kruse, secretary of the penitentiary board, publicly declared that there a deficit of at least $100,000 in the accounts of the State prison. A House resolution sent to the Senate two weeks ago for approval carried a provision for an audit but it was not included in the Senate resolution which superseded it.

The investigating committee is headed by Senator Frank Hollingsworth of Mexico, chairman, and includes these additional Democrats: Ralph Wammack of Bloomfield, A. L. McCaw of Carthage, W. R. Palmer of Carrollton and Leon S. Haynes of Springfield. Republican member are James S. Summers of Kansas City and William Maffitt Bates of St. Louis.

U. S. AGENTS FIND STILL ON FARM AFTER SHERIFF'S RAID

Guided by Anonymous Letter Asserting That Seizure Reported Was Not Made.

A 250-gallon still, supposedly the same one which St. Charles County officers reported they had confiscated last week, was found in operation on the farm owned by Adam Gutermuth Sr., near St. Charles, and seized by Federal Group Chief James Dillon and a squad of prohibition agents yesterday.

The raid was made following receipt by Dillon of an anonymous letter from a St. Charles County resident, who said that the raid reported by Deputy Sheriff Isadore Grothe of St. Charles County did not occur. The letter gave detailed instructions as to how to reach the still.

Dillon and his men caught two men, who said they were Joe Casanova, 919 High street, and Sam Tedaski, 1011 North Sixteenth street, operating the still. They seized 100 gallons of alcohol and destroyed 5000 gallons of mash.

Sheriff John Grothe, questioned at St. Charles about his brother, Isadore's, report of the raid, said there must have been two stills on the Gutermuth place. He declared that Isadore certainly had raided one of the stills and hauled it to St. Charles.

DOUBLE LIFE LED BY MAN SLAIN IS BARED BY POLICE

Harry Bournstein, in Addition to Home on Sheridan Av., Had Place on Gamble Street as 'Clark.'

Piecing together the irregular life of Harry Bournstein, 22-year-old newsdealer, who was found shot to death in an alley early yesterday, police are convinced the murder was the result of beer or whisky peddling or of a feud which grew out of such activities.

It was learned today that Bournstein was in a restaurant east of Jefferson avenue at 1 a. m. yesterday. Witnesses who identified his photograph said he was with four men, who came in a cream-colored runabout, and that he paid for a lunch because the others professed to have no money. The party left shortly after 1 o'clock and returned at about 3 a. m., with out Bournstein, according to these informants.

Ten prisoners, a woman and nine men, who were rounded up yesterday, were viewed today by witnesses from the restaurant, but none was identified. Other witnesses, it is understood, saw a similar automobile occupied by several men near the spot where Bournstein's body was found, in the alley behind, 1118 North Channing avenue.

It also was developed, police said, that Bournstein used two names and had two addresses. As Bournstein he lived with his parents and three brothers at 3020 Sheridan avenue, and as Harry Clark, he lived at 2926 Gamble street.

The woman who is held was arrested at the Gamble street address, where a quantity of home brew and brewing paraphernalia were confiscated.

Police also arrested a young man who had in his possession a light truck, the license of which was issued to "Harry Clark" at an address which proved to be the home of a suspect in the case. Beer and brewing equipment were also seized at 2529 Thomas street, where an associate of Bournstein was taken into custody.

The investigators are trying to trace the movements of Bournstein during the days which preceded his death. According to Benjamin Barnett, saloonkeeper at 3108 Easton avenue, Bournstein was in the saloon Sunday night until 11 o'clock when he left saying he was going to the Gamble street address.

At 4 a. m. police received a telephone call from a man who said there was a body in the Channing avenue alley. Officers who searched for it failed to find anything, but a Negro woman came upon the body at 8 a. m.

ATTACK ON I. C. C. VALUATION IS HELD TO BE PREMATURE

Supreme Court Says Report
Is Not Subject for Injunction
Till Used in Some Official Act.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Final valuations of railroads by the Interstate Commerce Commission cannot be challenged in the courts until used by the commission in rate making or as the basis for some other official act, the Supreme Court decided yesterday in a case arising out of the attack of the Los Angeles & Salt Lake Railroad upon the final valuation of its property by the commission.

The decision, delivered by Justice Brandeis, with no dissent, Justice Butler taking no part in the case, did not consider the merits of the valuation under attack, but the Court held that the railroad had no standing to attack the valuation until the commission used it in some official act, and declared that the proceedings it instituted should have been dismissed.

Explaining that the final valuation order of the commission was merely the formal record of conclusions reached after a study of data collected in the course of extensive research, Justice Brandeis said that it was merely an exercise by the commission of the function of investigation, not reviewable by the courts.

The decision will require the dismissal of a large number of cases pending in the lower courts in which final valuations were attacked before the commission had made them the basis for any official act.

Congress having declared the percentage of earnings to which railroads are entitled and having provided for the recapture of surplus earnings from the excessively prosperous for the aid of the impoverished companies, the basis used by the commission in rate-making became of prime importance, crucial not only to the railroads as the measure for their earnings, but also to the shipper and the traveling public as the measure of rates.

Required by Law.
In various rate cases the Supreme Court had clarified its views on what constituted a rate-making basis, upon which public utilities are under the Constitution entitled to reasonable return, and in the Government appeal it was asked to determine whether the method of railroad valuation by the Interstate Commerce Commission met the test.

Under the valuation act passed by Congress in 1913 the Commission in October, 1925, placed a final valuation of $45,200,000 as of June, 1914, upon the Los Angeles and St. Lake Railroad "for rate-making purposes."

The company went into the Federal District Court for Southern California, contending that it was entitled to an exchange or sale valuation, that is, what the property would bring the result of fair negotiations between an owner who is willing to sell and a purchaser who desires to buy. It contended that in June, 1914, its value was not less than $70,000,000 and that when the Commission's final valuation was made in 1925 it was not less than $83,000,000. It asked that the Commission be permanently enjoined from using its valuation figures for any purpose whatever, and this was done, the Government appealing to the Supreme Court.

The railroad contended that a valuation as of June, 1924, could not be a reasonable valuation in 1925 for any purpose, because of the enhancement in values. It declared that the prices used had become obsolete, and denied that the commission could find any support for its assertion that there was a valuation which could be applied exclusively for rate-making purposes. It insisted that the commission could use only one valuation for all purposes, which must be fair and apply in the recapture of excess earnings, the division of joint rates, the acquisition of control by one carrier over another, the consolidation of different systems and in the issuance of stocks and bonds as well as in rate-making.

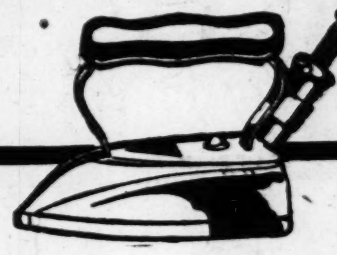

The wide difference between the commission's and the railroad's valuation arose in part from the refusal of the commission to include some elements which the railroad contended entered into a legitimate valuation of its property, and in part from material difference in the valuation of items both agreed should be included.

SHE EARNED $100,000 A YEAR
Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—A dinner was given last night for Mrs. Blanche R. Green of Yonkers, "the highest salaried woman in the world." Mrs. Green earns $100,000 a year by the sale of corsets. Fifteen years ago she found herself thrown on her own resources by an accident which crippled her young husband for life. Chance took her to a corset manufacturer in search of a job. At the end of the first year she had broken all sales records. As a result she was made sales manager of the firm and began building up her present organization of 3500 salesmen. Three times the plant has been enlarged to keep up with her. She now is vice president and general sales manager of the company.

Rubber Experiment Fund Sought.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—President Coolidge has asked Congress for a fund of $200,000 to enable the Department of Agriculture to enlarge its investigations of rubber production, especially in the Philippine Islands. The War Department is ready to assign 6000 acres on the island of Mindanao, believed to be well adapted for rubber culture, for experimentation.

Dentists

No "toothbrush" is like this. The Clean-BE-Tween is adjustable to any position—cleans the teeth thoroughly, front and back and in between.

This amazing new way to clean teeth revolutionizes tooth brushing

Ordinary tooth brushing does not and can not keep all teeth all clean! Even when you use a good brush, and try your best to do a thorough job, there is still 35 per cent of the tooth surfaces that you never thoroughly clean.

Your dentist will prove to you that this is true. Just a few days after he has cleaned every tooth until it shines like an ivory ornament, he will show you that tartar has already begun to form again on the unbrushed surfaces!

The shape of the ordinary tooth brush is such that the handle interferes with reaching the very surfaces where tartar most readily forms.

When you have once tried a Clean-BE-Tween you will never buy any other toothbrush!

The Clean-BE-Tween is adjustable. It reaches every surface of every tooth, not only polishing them but cleaning also the spaces between the teeth. Up-and-down brushing becomes easy and natural! That is why dentists everywhere prescribe the Clean-BE-Tween in preference to "toothbrushes."

The handle is unbreakable and is dropped on tile floor—may be sterilized in boiling water—without harm to the attractive handle or the permanent nickel silver parts. The brushes are removable and replaceable. Refill brushes, like extra razor blades, may be obtained at the drug or department store.

Ask your dealer to show you the Clean-BE-Tween. He is as enthusiastically in favor of it as your dentist is.

EAST ST. LOUIS PRIMARY ELECTION VOTE HEAVY

Two Groups of Democrats and One of Republicans Seeking Nominations.

A heavy primary vote is being polled today in East St. Louis, where two candidates for Mayor, eight candidates for City Commissioners, and candidates for Constable, Police Magistrate and Assistant Supervisor of the County Board are being chosen. Polls opened at 6 a. m. and will close at 4 p. m.

At noon approximately 11,000 votes had been cast, indicating the day's total would be about 18,000. The registration is 23,825.

Mayor M. M. Stephens, seeking re-election, heads the administration ticket, composed of the present commissioners, M. J. Whalen, John J. Conners, M. Paul Murray and Ralph Cook. This group has the support of the Democratic City Committee.

A second group of Democrats is headed by M. L. Harris, real estate dealer. The candidates for commissionership grouped with him are C. W. Leber, assistant superintendent of the Illinois Free Employment Bureau; Herman E. Zierath, automobile salesman, and Louis C. Traband, advertising salesman.

Republicans are supporting Frank Doyle for Mayor, and Sidney Ring, bank cashier; Albert P. Lauman, Justice of the Peace, and Robert F. Miller, an auditor, for commissionership.

It appeared from early returns that Doyle and Stephens would be nominated for Mayor, defeating Harris. In the race for commissionership, candidates on the three slates were leading the independents. Of the latter, former City Clerk John J. Hallahan and R. H. Hushie were making a good showing.

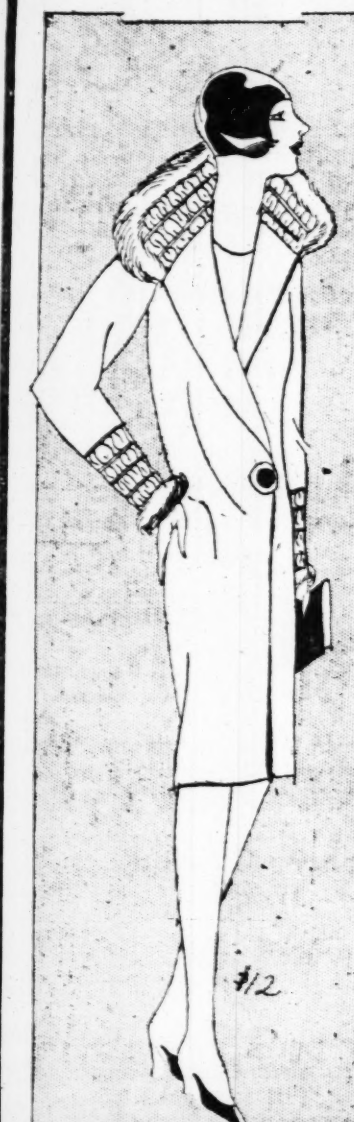

At the close of balloting today the votes will be counted in the office of the Board of Election Commissioners in the Sexton Building and the results will be known before midnight.

The organized groups closed the campaign yesterday with a special drive among Negroes. Most of the money spent by the organized groups of Republicans and Democrats went to Negroes who claimed to be leaders among their people.

WOULD REPEAL TAX ON BILLS RECEIVABLE

Three State Senators Unite in Presenting Bill for Relief of Merchants.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 22.—On the ground that the decision of the Missouri Supreme Court a week ago, holding that accounts receivable and credited were subject to taxation under the Missouri law, caused double taxation on many millions of dollars of goods in the State, three Senators, Ford of Nodaway County, Kinney of St. Louis and Ralph of St. Louis County, today introduced a bill in the Senate to exempt such items from taxes.

The measure is the matter of outstanding importance to the business interests of the State among all the bills in the Legislature. It has been estimated that if the Supreme Court decision stands, business unjustly will be taxed several million dollars a year in Missouri.

Senator Ford, in offering the bill, said that, while he was not questioning the legal correctness of the opinion of the court, he believed the decision would work an unnecessary hardship on business in Missouri and would tend to drive it from the State to adjoining states.

The object of the bill, the Senator said, was to prevent this onerous burden of taxation from being imposed upon the merchants and manufacturers of the State. "No one," he said, "can justify such a discrimination against this great class of our citizens."

The three Senators who appear as authors of the bill said that, although it was introduced very late in the session, they expected to use every effort to push it through the initial stages and get it on the calendar for final passage within two weeks.

INTERPRETER AIDS WEDDING IN EAST ST. LOUIS

Bride, Who Arrived From Germany to Wed Childhood Sweetheart, Speaks No English.

A courtship, which began in a little town in Germany, where the bride and bridegroom of yesterday were companions in childhood, resulted in the marriage of Miss Annie Roach, 18 years old, of 4552 South Grand boulevard, to Frank Kaufman, 21 years old, of 4236 Virginia avenue, before Justice of the Peace Driscoll in East St. Louis.

Mrs. Kaufman arrived in St. Louis yesterday, having come from Germany according to arrangements made with Kaufman when he visited her a year ago. She speaks German only and the ceremony was performed through an interpreter. Her husband came to this country four years ago.

a specific?

Advertising is undoubtedly a tonic for almost any business. It stabilizes the market value of securities, maintains organization morale, brings to the advertiser the choice personnel of the industry—all this besides promoting the sale of the product.

The tonic effects of advertising are unquestionably worth to most companies whatever they feel like spending for the purpose. These effects, however, frequently have the unfortunate result of blinding advertisers to even greater results which advertising could accomplish for them.

Advertising yields the most profit when it is employed as a specific rather than as a general tonic. Every business has markets which are weak, sales offices that do not function satisfactorily, products which do not move as they should. Instead of such situations being left to correct themselves, they should be vigorously attacked, one after the other. Advertising is usually the swiftest and the least expensive means of accomplishing specific objects.

When advertising is thus used, there is no question about results—or about cost of results. Unlike most advertising, there is a definite measure of accomplishment—a sure means of determining success or failure.

This is the kind of advertising which any business man, including the banker or auditor can understand. This is the kind of advertising advocated by this company even when the tonic effect also is one of the important objects.

AUTO SHOW TURNS TO STYLE DISPLAY AS CROWDS GROW

Salesmen Talk Comfort, Convenience and Luxury
and Let Sightseers Roam
at Will Through Building

The hardest thing to find at the annual St. Louis Auto Show, which opened yesterday in the Union Market Building, Broadway and Lucas avenue, is a plain black automobile, with plain black wood wheels. There are a few, of course, besides those in the funeral car sections, but they are mostly hidden in shadowy corners. The positions of honor on the main aisles of the three garage floors used for display are taken by color jobs which would put the most enterprising rainbow to shame.

If auto shows set auto styles, as may be supposed, spring will see a riot of color on the boulevards. Midway's motor car will match her frock, and the well-dressed young man will, perhaps, match his necktie, hose and runabout. Driving a black automobile on Lindell boulevard will be as bad form as wearing a dress suit on a street car.

Style Show This Year.
The Auto Show this year, as never before, is pre-eminently an auto style show. The Auto Show salesman still preaches performance, but the motif of his sales talk is comfort, convenience and luxury. The colors speak for themselves and range from pale creams to dark maroons with a multitudinous selection of two to six-tone combinations.

Attendance at the show was large from the moment the doors opened at 11 a. m. yesterday, with a constantly growing stream of visitors as the afternoon progressed. Ample floor space made possible wide aisles and advantageous displays. An hour is necessary to make even a passing survey of the 250-odd motor cars on display. The salesmen are not dangerous unless encouraged.

The show management announced today that 16,202 persons passed the ticket-takers yesterday. Last year the show opened on Washington's birthday with an attendance of 22,500.

After running the gauntlet of handbill pickets for the electrical workers' union, which frowns on the auto show, and ascending the ramp at the southeast corner of the building, the visitor is struck first by the variety of color combinations. Drawing closer he observes a marked trend toward luxury and individuality in the various makes of automobiles.

He will observe that the seats are designed more for comfort, that the upholstery is richer and thicker, that the door locks, window controls, dash instruments and other "hardware" are more accessible and easier to operate. He will observe, as he studies the models, that the lines are more graceful and that the American motor car is becoming more and more a thing of beauty.

Obviously, the major appeal this year is to the women, and hardly a car is shown but which illustrates this effort to please women. From the lowest-priced automobile to the most expensive special job, comfort, beauty and ease of operation are the salient points. The salesmen are prepared to talk miles-per-hour and gasoline consumption to the man who is interested, but the apparent tendency is to take performance for granted.

The open cars are featured and it is in these cars that color is rampant. Sport roadsters with rumble seats are everywhere in evidence, and several types of attractive convertible coupe-runabouts are to be seen. The predicted tendency toward the European type of light car does not materialize in this show.

Trucks and Tractors Shown.
Although attraction centered in the passenger car exhibits, there are included in the show a full line of trucks and tractors for every type of use, and extensive displays of accessories and shop equipment. Yesterday the largest crowds gathered about those fascinating exhibits of engine, axle and perpetually running. Numbers watched with amazement the movements of a flivver truck which dashed through the aisles removing rubbish and persistently promising to hit someone or something. All an exhibitor had to do to attract a crowd was to set something in motion.

On the whole, there is nothing radically new in this year's auto show but a general refinement and consistent improvement is noticeable. To the man or woman considering the purchase of an automobile or interested in automotive progress, the show is a place where he or she can see most anything and learn most anything.

Every exhibit is in charge of representatives who can answer questions intelligently and, while the primary object is to sell automobiles, they do not as a rule annoy the questioner with high-powered sales talks. Presuming that their prospects are car owners, the salesman talk of the need for two or three cars to the family and bend their efforts toward adding another machine to the string in the garage.

The show will continue through Saturday and will be open daily from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m., with a band concert each afternoon and evening.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH
AUTO SHOW TURNS
TO STYLE DISPLAY
AS CROWDS GROW

Works, presided at a meeting of Oldsmobile dealers yesterday afternoon and a banquet at Hotel Coronado last evening.

J. J. Hudson, local manager for the General Motors Acceptance Corporation; R. S. Rauehkoeb of the Chamber of Commerce; W. F. Gephart, vice president of the First National Bank, and R. L. Samuel, manager of the new Oldsmobile factory branch, spoke.

Hudson, describing the rapid growth of the automobile financing business, said that the General Motors Acceptance Corporation, which began business with a capital of $3,000,000, now had $30,000,000 capital and last year handled $500,000,000 of automobile dealers' paper.

FRAU ELENDORF FINDS
CHARITIES WONDERFUL

German Woman Alderman Praises American Hospital and Social Welfare Work.

The really impressive thing about the United States, to a visitor from abroad, is not the skyscrapers, nor the heavy traffic, "nor Mr. Ford," but the widespread sense of social responsibility.

This is the belief of Frau Olga Elendorf, gray-haired woman alderman from Breslau, Germany, who spoke yesterday in the new United Hebrew Temple, Skinker road and Wydown boulevard before 1200 Jewish women from four St. Louis temples.

Frau Elendorf spoke on "The Duties of the Liberal Jewess." Later, to a Post-Dispatch reporter, she expressed the view that "social responsibility" in the United States is more widespread than in any other country. She said she could hardly believe, at first, the extensive scale on which American charities are operated. She also bestowed praise on American hospital work and on the number of agencies here for social welfare.

Frau Elendorf, following her husband's death after the war, took an active interest in welfare and relief work in Breslau and was rewarded when her townsmen elected her to an aldermanic chair. She is touring this country, studying social welfare methods. Her next stop will be Hull House, Chicago, where she will visit Jane Addams.

Germany is getting slowly to her feet, Frau Elendorf said, but it will be at least 10 years more before the country recovers from the war. In her own city, the municipality has assumed the expenses of every fifth inhabitant, through necessity. This means, Frau Elendorf declared, that in Breslau, a city of 600,000, approximately 120,000 persons are indigent.

"We are recovering," she said. "The Dawes plan lays a heavy burden upon us, but we are glad it went through. It saved Germany at a crucial moment. All we want now is peace in Europe. Germany does not want war, neither does England, neither does Russia. I cannot believe Europe will be foolish enough to have another war."

Mrs. Sig. Livingston of Temple Israel presided at yesterday's meeting. The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Susan Goldstone, president of the Sisterhood of the United Hebrew Temple. Frau Elendorf, who left St. Louis today, was a guest here of Mrs. Maurice Steinfield, 5280 Washington boulevard.

DIAZ SEEKS NEW TREATY FOR NICARAGUA FROM U. S.

Consideration of Suggestions Dwarfs Importance of Military Aspect in Washington.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Interest in the military aspects of the Nicaraguan situation has been dwarfed somewhat in official circles as a result of receipt by the Washington Government of a preliminary draft of proposals by President Diaz for a new treaty with the United States.

Although details of the proposals have not been received, officials refuse to divulge their general nature, is understood to seek treaty guarantees for the protection of Nicaragua from external attack or internal disorders brought about by outside interference.

State Department officials have also declined to intimate what this Government's attitude toward the proposals might be or whether they were formulated by Diaz after conferences with Minister Eberhardt.

It was recalled in some quarters, however, that the treaty by which the United States acquired the rights to a canal route also permits the use of Nicaraguan territory to a certain extent by this country for Panama Canal defense, and that in view of this treaty, the Diaz suggestions might be negotiating a treaty similar to the new American-Panama pact. The latter calls for co-operative defense of the Panama Canal and, it is presumed, permits American assistance in preventing internal disorders instigated or inspired by any third country.

DAMROSCH WILL SPEAK AT SYMPHONY SOCIETY LUNCHEON

Also Will Address National Meeting of School Principals on Thursday.

Walter Damrosch, former conductor of the New York Symphony Orchestra, will speak at a luncheon to be given in his honor by the St. Louis Symphony Society at Hotel Jefferson Thursday, at noon on "The Civic Significance of a Symphony Orchestra." Invitations have been sent to all symphony concert subscribers, guarantors and members of the Symphony Society. The general public also is invited. Tickets cost $1 each.

On the evening Dr. Damrosch will address the convention of the National Association of Secondary School Principals—a group of about 500 principals of high schools and junior high schools—on "Music, the Universal Language."

66 OF 86 CHAPTERS QUIT KLAN

Order Collapses in North Carolina and "Grand Dragon" Resigns.

By the Associated Press. RALEIGH, N. C., Feb. 22.—Judge Henry A. Grady of the Superior Court, for four years "Grand Dragon" of the Ku Klux Klan for North Carolina, has resigned from the Klan because of an alleged attempted coercion to "obtain by subterfuge" the passage of what he regards as iniquitous legislation in the North Carolina General Assembly. On the heels of the resignation came the practical dissolution of the entire organization within the State when 66 of the 86 chapters surrendered their charters.

The legislation which Grady opposed would, it is said, make membership in the Catholic Church or in the Knights of Columbus a felony, and would forbid marriages between members of the Catholic and of the Protestant Churches when attended by any agreement as to the rearing of children.

WOMAN, 70, DIES OF BURNS

Mrs. Wilhelmina Mommer's Dress Caught Fire From Torch.

The funeral of Mrs. Wilhelmina Mommer, 70 years old, who died yesterday of burns suffered Feb. 13, when her dress caught fire, will be at 8:30 a. m. Thursday at Holy Trinity Catholic Church. Fourteenth and Mallinckrodt streets. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Mrs. Mommer was burned about the left side when her dress caught fire from an oil torch she was carrying to light her way to the basement of her home at 816 Angelica street. She died at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Minnie Thien, 6702 Clayton.

Chronic Head Colds

A Simple Method of Prevention

There is no disease more offensive or disagreeable, or no disease that will lead to as much serious trouble as catarrh or chronic colds. It often produces chronic headaches and deafness, affecting the eyes and voice, and frequently weakening the lungs. Get rid of catarrh by a simple, safe, pleasant home remedy, discovered by Dr. Blosser, a catarrh specialist.

Dr. Blosser's Remedy is composed of medicinal herbs, berries and flowers, which you smoke in a small pipe or cigarette. The smoke vapor is inhaled into the air passages of the nose, head, throat and lungs, and carries medicine where sprays, douches and stimulants reach. Its effect is soothing and healing, and as it contains no tobacco or cubebs is perfectly harmless, and may be used by women and children as well as men.

If you suffer with catarrh, ear, nasal deafness, asthma, hay fever, bronchial irritations, or if subject to frequent colds, get from your drug store a pocket size package of Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes. Prove for yourself their pleasant and beneficial effects.

ST. LOUIS TRANSIT BILLS HELD UP IN HOUSE COMMITTEE

Chairman Charles Albrecht
Says He Is Keeping
Enabling Measure for Amendment by Heege.

FINALLY REPORTS ON ONE-MAN CARS

But Service-at-Cost Repeal
Remains Tied Up—City
Delegation Pointed Out
Need for Speed.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 22.—

The bill to authorize St. Louis and other Missouri cities of more than 75,000 population to construct and operate rapid transit systems is being held up by Representative
Charles Albrecht of St. Louis, chairman of the House Municipal Corporations Committee, for further action to amend it, although the committee voted the bill out favorably last Friday night.

The delay is said to be over an amendment desired by Representative George F. Heege of St. Louis County, definitely limiting any powers of the city to condemn land in St. Louis County for the proposed transit system. Albrecht said he had not received the proposed amendment from Heege and said he was not certain when the bill would be reported out to the House.

One amendment was adopted by the committee at the request of Heege, a member, before the bill was voted out favorably. It bars
the city, in establishing a benefit district for construction of a rapid transit system, from levying any benefit assessments on property
outside the city boundaries.

Early Action Urged

The bill was voted out favorably by the committee immediately after the first hearing last Friday night.
Adoption of the bill was urged at the hearing by St. Louis city officials, members of the Rapid Transit Committee of the Board of Aldermen and other St. Louisans. No opposition was offered to the bill.
Early action was urged because of the limited time remaining in which to put a bill through both houses of the Legislature.

After action by a committee, the actual report to the House is made by the chairman, stating the action taken by the committee.

Albrecht also is holding up the bill repealing the street railway service-at-cost law, which would block adoption of the pending St.
Louis ordinance refranchising the United Railways Co. for 30 years on a service-at-cost basis, although it was voted out favorably by the committee in the same session at which the rapid transit bill was considered.

Members of the committee and Representative W. R. Schneider of St. Louis, author of the bill, indicated action would be taken on return of the bill to the House unless Albrecht reported it.

Committee Action in Doubt

The vote on reports to be made on bills are taken in executive sessions of the committee and then announced. Following the Manufacturing Corporations Committee meeting last Friday night, city officials, lobbyists and newspaper reporters were informed by committee members that the rapid transit
bill had been voted out favorably and another bill by Schneider, regulating use of one-man street cars in St. Louis, had been voted out favorably. This was confirmed by Albrecht.

Albrecht last night asserted the service-at-cost repeal bill and the one-man car bill had not been voted out and were being held up for another hearing. "They may never come out," he said.

Other members said the bills
had been voted out. Today Albrecht favorably reported the one-man car bill to the House. Protests against the service-at-cost repeal bill have been made by city officials since the committee meeting.

City Counselor Muench of St.
Louis, after hearing of the action taken by the committee, said passage of the service-at-cost repeal bill would block adoption of the franchise ordinance and undo everything that has been done on it.
He said such action would put the franchise negotiations back where they started two years ago and bring the pending reorganization of the United Railways to a standstill.

Germany to Dynamite Forts

BERLIN, Feb. 22.—The German War Office has ordered the Governors of fortresses on the eastern boundary of Germany to begin dynamiting the fortifications whose demolition was stipulated in the recent agreement at Paris between the German experts and the Ambassadors Council. The destruction of the fortifications, it was agreed, must be completed within four months.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 22.—The bill to authorize St. Louis and other Missouri cities of more than 50,000 population to construct and operate rapid transit systems is being held up by Representative Charles Albrecht of St. Louis, chairman of the House Municipal Corporations Committee, for further action to amend it, although the committee voted the bill out favorably last Friday night.

Committee Action in Doubt
The bill was reported to the House by the committee, the action taken by the chairman, stating the action taken by the committee. Albrecht also is holding up the bill repealing the street railway service-at-cost law, which would block adoption of the proposed St. Louis ordinance reauthorizing the United Railways Co. for 30 years on a service-at-cost basis, although it was voted out favorably by the committee in the same session at which the rapid transit bill was considered.

Members of the committee and Representative W. R. Schneider of St. Louis, author of the bill, indicated action would be taken on the floor of the House to compel return of the bill to the House unless Albrecht reported it.

Other members said the bills had been voted out. Today Albrecht said he had reported the one-man car bill to the House. Protests against the service-at-cost repeal bill have been made by city officials since the committee meeting.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.

FOLLOWING is the text of President Coolidge's address to a joint session of Congress this afternoon on George Washington.

My fellow Americans: On the twenty-second day of February, 1922, America will celebrate the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington. Wherever there are those who love ordered liberty, they may well join in the observance of that event. Although he belongs to a yet by being a great American, he became a great world figure. It is but natural that here under the shadow of the stately monument rising to his memory, in the Capital City bearing his name, the country made independent by his military genius, and the republic established by his statesmanship, should already begin preparations to proclaim the immortal honor in which we hold the Father of our Country.

In recognition of the importance of this coming anniversary, more than two years ago the Congress passed a joint resolution establishing a commission, which was directed to have this address read to every American people, reminding them of the reason and purpose for holding the coming celebration. It was also considered that now would be an appropriate time to inform the public that this commission desires to receive suggestions concerning plans for the proposed celebration and to express the hope that the States and their political subdivisions under the direction of their Governors and local authorities would soon arrange for appointing commissions and committees to formulate programs for co-operation with the Federal Government.

When the plans begin to mature they should embrace the active support of educational and religious institutions, of the many civic, social, and fraternal organizations, agricultural and trade associations, and of other numerous activities which characterize our national life.

Idealized by Countrymen.
It is greatly to be hoped that out of the studies pursued and the investigations made a more complete conception of Washington, the man, and his relation to the life that is characteristic of America may be secured. It was to be expected that the idealized by his countrymen. His living at a time when there were scanty reports in the public press, coupled with the fact that he was a biographer, resulted in a rather imaginary character being created in response to the universal desire to worship his memory.

The facts of his life were of record, but were not easily accessible. While many excellent books, often scholarly and eloquent, have been written about him, the reputation has been so strong to represent him as an heroic figure composed of superlatives that the real man among men, the human being subjected to the trials and temptations of common life, has been too much obscured and forgotten. When we regard him in this character and have revealed to us the judgment with which he met his problems, we shall find the more we understand and reverse his true greatness. No great mystery surrounds him; he never relied on miracles. But he was a man endowed with the most common sense, with tireless industry, with a talent for finite pains, and with a mind able to understand the universal and eternal problems of mankind.

Washington has come to be known to the public almost exclusively as the Virginia Colonel who accompanied the unfortunate expedition of Gen. Braddock as the Commander-in-Chief of the Continental Army during the Revolutionary War, as the first President of the United States, and as the master of the beautiful estate at Mount Vernon. This general estimate is based to a large extent on the command he held in time of war and the public opinion of the time. A recital of his courage and patriotism, his loyalty and devotion, his self-sacrifice, his refusal to be King, will always arouse the imagination and inspire the youth of every nation who loves his country.

Appeal Even Broader.
Nothing can detract from the exalted place which this record entitles him to hold. But he has an appeal to a broader circle than this, which today is equally valuable to the people of the United States. Not many of our citizens are to be called on to take high commands or to hold high public office. We are all necessarily engaged in the ordinary affairs of life. As a valuable example to youth and to maturity, the experience of Washington in these directions is worthy of much more attention than it has received.

We all share in the independence which he won and the free republic he did so much to establish. We need a diligent comprehension and understanding of the great principles of government which he wrought out, but we share also secure a wide practical advantage if we go beyond this record, already so eloquently expounded, and consider him also as a man of affairs. It was in this field that he developed that executive ability which he later displayed in the camp and in the council chamber.

It ought always to be an inspiration to the young people of the country to know that from earliest youth Washington showed a disposition to make the most of his opportunities. He was a diligent student, a most admirable and desirable if seemingly uninteresting trait. His father, who had been educated in England, died when his son was 11 years old. His mother had but modest educational advantages. There were no great incentives to learning in Virginia in 1732, and the facilities for acquiring knowledge were still meager. The boy might well have grown up with very little education, but his eager mind and indomitable will led him to acquire learning and information despite the handicaps of his environment.

Schooling Ended at 13.
His formal schooling, which was of a rather primitive character, ended at the age of 13. His copy and exercise books, still in existence, contain forms of bills, receipts, and like documents, showing he had devoted considerable time to that branch of his studies. He was preparing himself to be a practical business man. When his regular instruction ended, his education was just beginning. It continued up to his death, Dec. 14, 1799. If ever there was a self-made man, it was George Washington. Through all his later years he was constantly absorbing knowledge from contact with men, from reading whenever time and facilities permitted, and from a wide correspondence.

When 16, he became a surveyor and for four years earned a living and much experience in that calling. Although considerable has been written about it, not many people think of our first President as an agriculturist. He prepared a treatise on this subject. Those who have studied this phase of his life tell us he was probably the most successful owner and director of an agricultural estate in his day. A visitor in 1785 declared Washington's growth in wealth was due to his skill as a farmer in America. Toward the end of his life he wrote:

"I am led to reflect how much more delightful to an unobscured mind is the task of making improvements on the earth than all the vain glory which can be acquired from ravaging it by the most unintermitted career of conquests."

He always had a great affection for Mount Vernon. He increased his land holdings from 2500 to over 8000 acres, 3200 of which he had under cultivation at one time.

His estate was managed in a thoroughly businesslike fashion. He kept a very careful set of account books for it, as he did for his other enterprises. Overseers made weekly statements showing just how each laborer had been employed, what earnings he had received, and he replied in long letters of instruction, displaying wonderful familiarity with details.

Overlooked No Detail.
He was one of the first converts to the benefits of scientific fertilization and to the rotation of crops, for that purpose making elaborate tables covering five-year periods. He overlooked no detail in carrying on his farm according to the practice of those days, producing on the premises most of the things needed there, even to shoes and textiles. He began the daily round of his fields at sunrise, and often retired his coat and helped his men in the work of the day.

He also showed his business ability by the skillful way in which he managed the considerable estates left to his two stepchildren by their father. So successfully was this done that John Parke Custis became, at the age of 21, the richest young man in the Old Dominion. He is said to have been advised to get the ablest man in the colony to manage his estate and to pay him any salary within reason. And he adds: "That she chose wisely in marrying the young colonel, and get the best of a good bargain, is the opinion of many."

He was engaged in many business enterprises. That of the Dismal Swamp, comprising drainage and lumber operations south of Norfolk, was handled efficiently by Washington for five years subsequent to 1751. In addition to his land holdings, wisely chosen, the rise in value of which amounted in no small degree for his fortune. Washington participated in a number of real estate and transportation schemes. As a private citizen he was constantly on the outlook for sound investments and for ways to increase his capital. In the promotion of plans for the building up and development of new parts of the country he was performing important public service.

Dr. Albert Bushnell Hart, distinguished historian, and a member of our commission, says:

"Washington has been criticized for buying up land warrants and holding on to his title in the face of squatters. Actually no American has ever done so much to open up vast tracts of land, first under the British and then under the American flag, as he did. He became the home of millions of American farmers."

Years of Effort Rewarded.
After 13 years of effort Washington forced the British Government to give to the Virginia veterans of the French and Indian wars the 200,000 acres of western lands promised by the Governor of that Colony. His management and distribution of these lands were carried out in an eminently efficient and satisfactory manner. He acquired two large farms in Maryland. During a trip in New York State in 1783 he saw the possibilities of a waterway from the sea to the Great Lakes by way of the Hudson River and the Mohawk Valley—the present route of a great barge canal. Because of his business vision he joined with General Clinton in the purchase of 6000 acres near Utica.

To Washington, the men of affairs, we owe our national banks, for had he followed the advice of other leaders, great but less enlightened on matters of finance, the plans of Alexander Hamilton would not have been realized. As a result of the war the country was deeply in debt, and the credit of the United States was at a low ebb. The solution of our financial difficulties suggested by the first Secretary of the Treasury was opposed by those from rural communities. They argued that the solution of the financial difficulties would dominate to the detriment of other parts of the country.

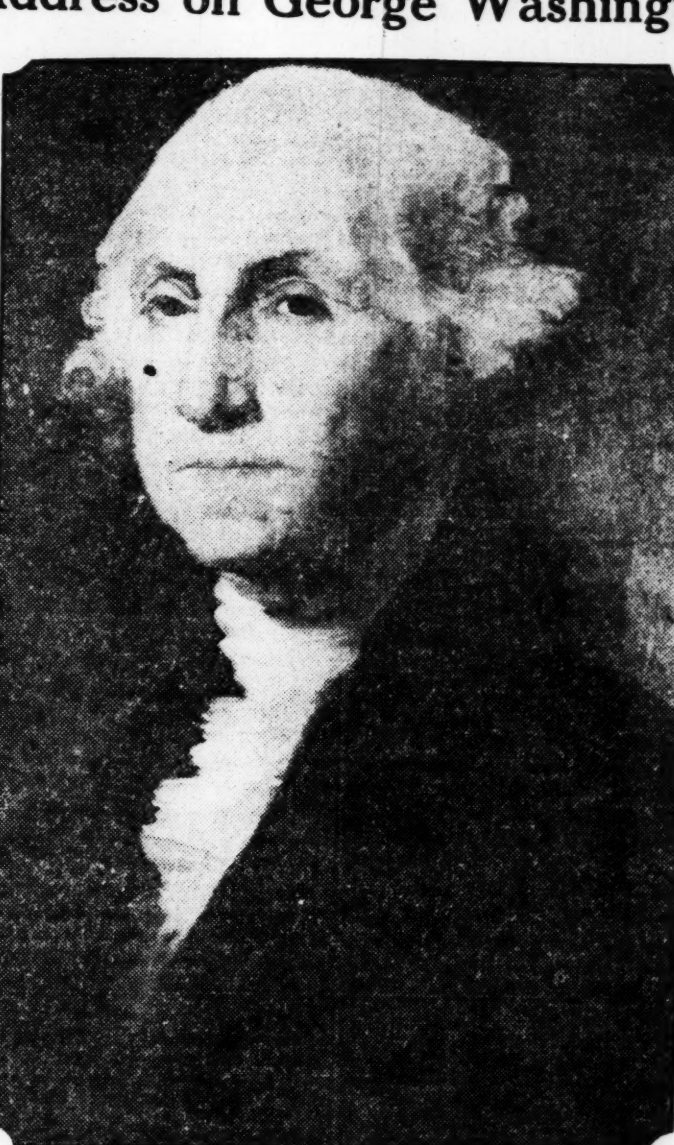

Both Jefferson, Secretary of State, and Randolph, Attorney General, in writing opposed the incorporation by Congress of a national bank. They were joined by Madison and Monroe. All argued against the constitutionality of this proposition. Hamilton answered their arguments fully in his famous opinion. But had the President not been a man of affairs, had he not been for many years a large holder of stock in the Bank of England, coming from the estate of Daniel Parke Custis, he might have yielded to the opposition. Because he knew something of bank accounts and bank credits, he signed and the foundation of our financial system laid.

Washington was also a stockholder in the Bank of Alexandria and in the Bank of Columbia. In his last will and testament he directed that such moneys as should be derived from the sale of his estate during the life of his widow should be invested for her in good bank stocks.

His Will Remarkable.
After his retirement from the presidency in March, 1797, Washington spent more than 10 years of his life at Mount Vernon. In his last summer he made a will, one of the most remarkable documents of its kind of which we have record. Again he showed his versatility in disposing of his many properties under a variety of bequests and conditions without legal advice. It has been called an autobiography in miniature. His manifold provisions for his dependents and his solicitude for the future welfare of his country.

As President he was always an exponent of sound and honest public finance. He advocated the payment of our debts in full to holders of record, and the assumption of the national debt by the Government. He was various States to carry on the Revolution. His support of financial integrity, because it was morally right, strengthened the Union.

This practical business ability and interest in broad general affairs made him one of the first to realize that the future of the American empire lay in the regions beyond the Alleghenies in the territory of the Ohio and the Mississippi. Because of this belief, he is said to have been the moving spirit in the first plans for the organization of our public lands. His association with the West may have started in the period 1769-1771, when he assisted his brother, Lawrence, in his various business enterprises. In 1781, they, in 1784, established a sep-had a grant of 500,000 acres of land on the east side of the Ohio River.

The French having driven out the British settlers, who had started a fort where Pittsburgh now stands, Washington, at the age of 21, volunteered to head an expedition to the settlement of the western lands. The company was considered of enough importance to be sent from London to all the European capitals by way of justifying Great Britain in making war upon France. In 1763 he organized the Mississippi company to take the place of the Ohio company, which was one of the first of the kind. He applied for a grant of 1,000,000 acres of land, though he did not receive it. But he made his own investments so that in the end he was a large holder of stock in the company. His will was valued at over $400,000—along the Ohio, the Great Kanawha, in Western Pennsylvania, in Kentucky, and in the Northwest Territory.

His Vision of the West.
Having a vision of what the West meant in the future prosperity of the new republic, Washington in 1784 journeyed out into the wilds. His diary of the trip is filled with interest and enthusiasm over the possibilities of that region. Hubert, who has made a study of it, calls him our first expansionist, the originator of the idea of possessing the West through commercial relations.

arate state and started negotiations for an association with that foreign country.

Rescinded for Waterway.
This action was rescinded after Washington put forth his waterway plan. That he should have been responsible in large measure for the opening of the West and the commercial advantages the country might derive therefrom is by no means the least of his benefactions to the nation. He demonstrated that those who develop our resources, whether along agricultural, commercial, and industrial lines or in any other field of endeavor, are entitled to the approval, rather than the censure, of their countrymen.

Washington was a builder—a creator. He had a national mind. He was constantly warning his countrymen of the danger of settling programs in accordance with sectional interests. His ideas in regard to the opening of our Western territory were thought out primarily for the benefit of the nation.

He was an idealist in the sense that he had a very high standard of private and public conduct, which he was at all times to root out internal sedition and put invasion to flight; to perpetuate to our country that prosperity which his goodness has already conferred; and to verify the anticipations of this Government being a safeguard of human rights.

High Standard of Honor.

is essential that public opinion should be enlightened."

He desired his system of education, religion and morality to be thoroughly American and thoroughly national. It was to support the people in a knowledge of their rights, in the creation of a republican spirit, and in the maintenance of the Union.

Clear Vision of Religion.
It was with the same clear vision that he looked upon religion. For him there was little in it of emotionalism. He placed it on a firmer, more secure foundation, and stated the benefits which would accrue to his country as the results of faith in spiritual things. He recognized that religion was the main support of free institutions. In his Farewell Address he said:

"Of all the dispositions and habits which lead to political prosperity, religion and morality are indispensable supports. In vain would that man claim the tribute of patriotism who should labor to subvert these great pillars of human happiness, these firmest props of the duties of men and citizens. The mere politician, equally with the pious man, ought to respect and to cherish them. A volume could not trace all their connections with private and public felicity. Let it simply be asked, Where is the security for property, for reputation, for life, for the sense of religious obligation desert the oaths which are the instruments of investigation in courts of justice? And let us with caution indulge the supposition that morality can be maintained without religion. Whatever may be conceded to the influence of refined education on minds of peculiar structure, reason and experience both forbid us to expect that national morality can prevail in exclusion of religious principle. It is substantially true that virtue or morality is a necessary spring of popular government. The rule, indeed, extends with more or less force to every species of free government. Who that is a sincere friend to it can look with indifference upon attempts to shake the foundation of the fabric?"

Without bigotry, without intolerance, he appeals to the highest spiritual nature of mankind. His genius has filled the earth. He has been recognized abroad as "the greatest man of our own or any age." He loved his fellowmen. He loved his country. That he instructed the people in the duties of citizenship, keeping to a Divine Providence is revealed in the following prayer which he made in 1794:

"Let us unite, in imploring the Supreme Ruler of Nations, to spread His holy protection over these United States; to turn the machinations of the wicked, to the confirming of our Constitution; to enable us, at all times, to root out internal sedition and put invasion to flight; to perpetuate to our country that prosperity which His goodness has already conferred; and to verify the anticipations of this Government being a safeguard of human rights."

ITALY REJECTS COOLIDGE'S PLAN FOR FIVE-POWER NAVAL LIMITATION

Tells President There Is 'Undeniable Interdependence of Every Type of Armament.'

NOTE TO AMERICA CONSIDERED BLUNT

Phrasology Seems to Leave Little Chance for Further Negotiations With Rome on Armament

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Italy, like France, has turned down the American five-power naval limitation proposal and thus has apparently scrapped the hopes of American officials for an agreement among the five leading naval Powers for further restriction.

Since Japan has accepted the plan advanced by President Coolidge, it remains only for Great Britain to disclose her attitude on the extension of the Washington limitation treaty to cruisers, destroyers and submarines. On her position appears to rest the prospects for a three-power understanding or regional agreement to limit auxiliary craft.

The Italian reply, made public last night by the State Department, expressed that Government's unwillingness to discuss naval limitation alone, declaring "there exists an undeniable interdependence of every type of armament of every single Power, and furthermore, that it is not sufficient to adopt partial measures between only the five large naval Powers."

Other Reasons for Refusal.
"The Italian Government," the reply added, "thinks that the limitation of armaments, to be effective, must be extended to all types of arms to the ends referred to by Mr. Coolidge, should be universal and recalls in this connection that the example of Washington was not accepted by the minor naval powers, and that the conference held at Rome in February, 1924, for the extension of the principles of the Washington treaty to the Powers not signatory thereto was a failure."

Further reason given for her refusal to accede to the proposal was that Italy, by reason of its "unfavorable geographical position, cannot expose itself without grave risks to a binding limitation of its military armaments, which are already insufficient to the needs of its defense."

So blunt was the reply, in the opinion of some officials, that it appeared to leave little leeway for composing misunderstandings of the American proposal such as Secretary Kellogg indicated he saw in the French refusal.

The phrasology employed indicated the Rome government's belief that the Coolidge proposal contemplated a reduction in cruiser, destroyer and submarine strength, whereas only establishment of tonnage limitation was proposed for each class of ships and Italian and French ratios were not even included in the proposed extension of the Washington treaty to auxiliary craft.

Three-Power Pact.
Meantime, the United States is proceeding under its program of co-operating in the broader disarmament discussion at Geneva under League of Nations auspices, and some observers believe that discussion of the American regional agreement plan ultimately will lead to efforts to make it effective between the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

Although it is admitted that such a proposition would present serious questions to Great Britain because of her proximity to continental Europe, there appears little doubt that the three-power arrangement will be discussed informally in London, Tokyo and Washington before the American Government is willing to concede that further early naval limitation is practically hopeless.

Hugh Gibson, American Minister at Bern and Ambassador-designate to Belgium, who will continue to head the American delegation at the Geneva preparatory commission discussions, called at the White House yesterday for final instructions.

A Mysterious Character

THE MARQUIS DE BOLLIBAR, by Leo Perutz, The Viking Press. This is a most interesting and popular novel, that has been translated into many languages. It is a story of a mysterious character, who is a member of a secret society, and who is a member of a secret society, and who is a member of a secret society. The story is a story of a mysterious character, who is a member of a secret society, and who is a member of a secret society, and who is a member of a secret society. Two chiefs of February. One the founder, one the leader. Of the Nation of the Free, both upstanding and commanding. Endless immortality. Our two chiefs of February. Are more loved and honored than by others, heroes, brothers. In the history of man.

Washington, the Nation's father. None so brave and true as he. Lived the story of Old Glory. And the dawn of liberty. Lincoln, just a great big brother. Saved that flag from infamy. And the Nation from secession. Dissolution, slavery.

Different in birth and station. There was still no difference in their fearless consideration. To the cause of the oppressed. That great cause, which through the ages. Men and nations, weak or strong. Have to meet, when conflict rages. Choosing right from greed and wrong.

Our two chiefs of February. Stood for freedom, truth and right. Single-handed they demanded. Justice from the kings of might. So contagious was their courage. So unselfish every claim. That the masses of all classes. Crowned them with undying fame.

Los Angeles, Cal. FIRE ON "THE HILL." Fire! Less go, it's right down the street. You're just like a kid, running to every fire. An' they's a wedding 'goin' on up in the hall. Gee, look at the blaze! Less go. Get out of there, get out of there; GET OUT OF THERE! Well, I don't care, the law says when you hear the siren, pull up to the curb. I know, George, but they wanted to go down this street. Boy, they sure got here in a hurry. What is it, a house or a shed? I jumped over a wagon and was here in a jiffy. What is it, a house or a shed? The mamma, come in the house, before you catch cold. Aw, it's only a shed. Where's that small line of ours? Let's get our line out of here before it gets all tangled up. That wasn't no wedding; that was a dance. You know those fellows what came down this street? Boy, they was throwin' water on the fire 'fore the rest of 'em got there.

Mr. and Mrs. Clement Ross Duncan Meier of 75 Vandeventer place have returned from a short stay in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Durham of the Senate Apartments departed Sunday for a few weeks' stay at Pass Christian, Miss.

Miss Sally C. O'Fallon, daughter of Clarence C. O'Fallon of 5704 Cates avenue, will be hostess at a bridge party of four tables Saturday evening, Feb. 26.

One of the largest pre-Lenten social affairs of the season was held today at Hotel Chase when five chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution gave a Washington's birthday luncheon in honor of the State Society.

Mrs. Howard Bailey, regent of the St. Louis Chapter, presided and a musical program was given by Mrs. John E. Stoker, Mrs. Ivan Lee Holt, Mrs. Charles E. Blankenship and Mrs. Roger P. Annan Jr. Dr. W. Ashley Jones, pastor of the Second Baptist Church, and Mrs. Bolls were the speakers.

Mrs. J. Percival Phelan of 5206 Waterman avenue, and her daughter, Miss Janet, and Mrs. Shapleigh Boyd of 422 Pershing avenue, are passing two weeks at Pass Christian, Miss. Mrs. Phelan and her daughter and Mrs. Boyd motored to New Orleans last week with Mrs. Phelan's son, Percival Phelan Jr., to be present at the wedding of Mr. Phelan and Miss Helen Toomay, daughter of the Rev. Dr. John Barron Toomay of Ontario, Cal., formerly of St. Louis. The marriage took place quietly last Tuesday at Trinity Church, New Orleans. Mr. Phelan and his bride are spending a short time with his mother at Pass Christian, Miss., before going to Atlanta, Ga., where they will make their home.

The Literature and Reciprocity Committee of the Eighth District, Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs, will hold its regular meeting Friday at 10 a. m. at Vandeventer's Auditorium. Mrs. Otis E. Turner is chairman.

Mrs. Carl A. Deleke of Norman, Okla., is the guest of Mrs. J. H. Jones of 422 Pershing avenue, who is passing two weeks at Pass Christian, Miss.

Miss Elizabeth Morse will entertain a number of club women Thursday morning at 10 o'clock in the New Toy Theater. Miss Morse will give a lecture and demonstration on "Better Speech, and the Scientific Cultivation of the Speaking Voice."

The Zonta Club will have as its speaker Thursday afternoon Mrs. Bessie Mott of New York, whose subject will be "Women and Money." Mrs. Mott is chairman of the Committee on Education in Banking and Investments of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. A luncheon will precede the address.

Lady Muriel Paget of London, England, who is on a lecture tour of the United States, will arrive in St. Louis, March 8. She will stop at Hotel Coronado.

hundreds of voices singing—singing of toll and danger, will you serve a stranger? And bow down to Burgundy? Sons of France, and tomorrow, will you cheer tomorrow? For the crown of Burgundy? Onward! Onward! Swords against the foe! Forward! Forward the lily banners go! Sons of France around us, break the chain that bound us, And to Hell with Burgundy! There are other songs, too, worth hearing. "Only a Rose," "Flag of Wine," "Tomorrow" and "Love Me Tonight," for example, but it is really the chant of the vagabonds which leads all of the others.

The opening performance of "The Vagabond King" last night was given under the auspices of the College Club as a benefit for its scholarship fund. Most of the universities of the country are represented in the audience and between the acts the songs of their alma mater were sung. Short addresses, too, were made by Gene Angert and others, so that, altogether, it was a gala occasion.

There is little more to the story than has been outlined above. Into the haunts of the vagabonds of Paris wanders Katherine de Vaucelles, pretty lady of the court, who seeks to have murder done to protect her beloved Paris from a traitor, and who finds her man in Villon—and also finds in him an ardent lover. All Dressed Up In Daddy's Clothes!

[Sonny Plays]
An Old Game]

The little fellow above tried to put one over on Mother.
But Daddy's size 42 is a little more than he can manage.

Sonny's little game is, after all, as old as Adam. Take the history of malt, for instance. There are many brands on the market—mostly they have fancy labels, and they come in similar sized cans, too. In fact, they may be all dressed up like Puritan Malt. But have they, like Puritan, uniform Strength, Richness and Flavor? Are they, like Puritan, blended with genuine Imported Bohemian Hops? No wonder Puritan is America's favorite malt!

HIGH PRICE FIGHT AND LOCKOUTS IN CLEANERS' ROW

Independents Declare There Is No Reason to Continue Increases Put Into Effect in January.

While the St. Louis Retail Cleaners & Dyers' Association apparently is united in opposition to unionization of their plants, two members having locked out 110 employees today and yesterday, independent cleaners assert there is no good reason for the continuance of high prices for cleaning and dyeing placed in effect Jan. 3, when it appeared association members would recognize the union.

John W. Tesar, secretary of the Cleaners, Dyers & Pressers Union, announced this morning that 50 employees of Scott's Cleaning Co., 3829 Olive street, were refused admittance to the plant because of their union affiliations. This action followed the lockout yesterday of 60 employees of the Star Dyeing & Cleaning Co., 2515 North Grand boulevard, on similar grounds.

The increase in prices is being stressed by union organizers in their effort to unionize employees. On Jan. 3 the retailers announced that the price of cleaning men's two or three piece suits had been increased 50 cents a suit, from $1 to $1.50. Pressing the same number of garments was increased from 35 cents to 50 cents. Other prices were accordingly increased, including 2 cents an inch, from 3 cents to 5 cents, for cleaning women's silk dresses. Effective Jan. 31, wholesale cleaners, who clean garments for small neighborhood tailors, announced the charge to the tailor for cleaning a man's suit of clothes had been increased 25 cents, from 20 cents to 45 cents. The tailor, who presses the garments after they are cleaned, in turn charges $1.50 for the job.

Cost Has Not Increased.
From an independent cleaner it was learned that the actual cost of the work has not been increased. This operator, who has had a wide experience in the tailoring and cleaning business, estimated that a skilled employee can clean 25 men's suits in an hour, using about two gallons of naphtha. At Standard Oil headquarters it was said that "cleaners' naphtha," a noncombustible fluid, is being sold to cleaners at 21.9 cents a gallon, and that the price has not varied more than 3 cents within a year.

The independent operator told a Post-Dispatch reporter that he was "making money," although charging only 50 cents for cleaning three-piece men's suits and 35 cents for pressing.

The $1.50 charge is uncalculated, he said. "Even though the new union may be expected to request an increase in wages for employees, they have not done so as yet. The members of the association seem to be presuming on this and that other costs will be raised. In the interim the public is asked to pay, because, as one member of the association put it to me, the public is willing to pay."

Organized Last August.
The union was organized here last August and has been recognized by the 18 wholesale cleaning establishments, which employ about 300 workers. These employees obtained a reduction in working hours, from 9 to 8 a day, but have requested no wage increase. Wages in wholesale establishments range from $22 to $40 weekly.

Only two of the 23 firms in the Retail Cleaners' Association have permitted their employees to organize openly. About 900 workers, many of them women, are employed in the retail plants during the rush season, which opens March 1.

A Post-Dispatch reporter, who called at the Retail Association headquarters, 3320 Washington boulevard, yesterday afternoon, during a meeting of the association, was told, "There is no statement." The same response was made by Ferdinand T. Herzogenrath, in charge of the Star Cleaning Co., when questioned concerning yesterday's lockout. Arthur Hartman, manager of Scott Cleaning Co., could not be found today. An employment agency has been opened at the headquarters for hiring non-union help.

Increase Demand to Follow.
The Cleaners' Union holds a charter from the American Federation of Labor and is affiliated with the Central Trades and Labor Union here. Officers of the union declare they have organized 750 cleaning company employees so far. They admit demands for increased wages and shorter hours will follow the completion of the organization effort.

"Why shouldn't we ask for some things," Tesar inquired. "The bosses asked for an increase from the public and got it, but those in the retail association apparently want to keep the increased profits to themselves."

David Hogan, 42 years old, of 2014 Longfellow place, an inspector at the Star Cleaning Co., was beaten by a picket when he left the plant at 5:15 p. m. yesterday. Cleaning Company Explosion and Fire Investigated.
Police are investigating a fire which started with an explosion last evening at the International Cleaning Co., 4459 St. Louis avenue, and damaged the one-story building $2000, contents $500, and confectionery next door, at 4458, $100. They were unable to find the proprietor for questioning. Had not been seen there since Saturday. Shopkeepers of the block said he was away.

TEXT OF ADDRESS
BY PRESIDENT ON
GEORGE WASHINGTON

of reason must always be applied. He followed Milton, who declared "... law in a free nation hath ever been public reason," and he agreed with Burke that "Men have no right to what is not reasonable."

It is a mark of a great man that he surrounds himself by great men. Washington placed in the most important positions in his Cabinet, Jefferson, with his advocacy of the utmost degree of local self-government and of states' rights, and Hamilton, whose theories of a strong national Government led him to advocate the appointment of state Governors by the President. Either theory carried to the extreme soon would have brought disaster to what has proved the most successful experiment in liberty under proper governmental restraint in the history of the world.

Guarded States Rights.

It is due to his memory that we guard the sovereign rights of the individual states under our Constitution with the same solicitude that we maintain the authority of the Federal Government in all matters vital to our continued national existence.

Such is the background of a man performing the ordinary duties of life. As it was George Washington, of course, he performed them extraordinarily well. The principles which he adopted in his early youth and maintained throughout his years are the source of all true greatness. Unless we understand this side of him, we shall fail in our comprehension of his true character. It was because of this training that he was able to assume the leadership of an almost impossible cause, carry it on through a long period of discouragement and defeat, and bring it to a successful conclusion.

In advance of all others he saw that war was coming. With an army that was never large and constantly shifting, poorly supported by a confederation inexperienced, inefficient and lacking in almost all the essential elements of a government, he was victorious over the armies of seasoned troops commanded by Howe, Burgoyne, Clinton and Cornwallis, supported by one of the most stable and solid of governments, possessed of enormous revenues and ample credit, representing the first military power of the world.

As an example of generalship, extending over a series of years from the siege of Boston to the fall of Yorktown, the Commander in Chief of the Continental Armies holds a position that is unrivaled in the history of warfare. He never wavered, he never faltered from the day he modestly undertook the tremendous task of leading a revolution to the day when with equal modesty he surrendered his commission to the representatives of the independent Colonies. He triumphed over a people in the height of their glory who had acknowledged no victor for 700 years.

Personified the Republic.

Washington has come to personify the American republic. He presided over the convention that framed our Constitution. The weight of his great name was the deciding factor in securing its adoption by the States. These results could never have been secured had it not been recognized that he would be the first President.

When we realize what it meant to take 13 distracted Colonies, impoverished, envious, and hostile and weld them into an orderly federation under the authority of a central government, we can form some estimate of the influence of this great man. But when we go further and remember that the Government which he did so much to bring into being not only did not falter when he retired from its administration, but, withstanding every assault, has constantly grown stronger with the passage of time and been found adequate to meet the needs of nearly 120,000,000 people occupying half a continent and constituting the greatest power the world has ever known, we can judge something of the breadth and soundness of his statesmanship.

We have seen many soldiers who have left behind them little but the memory of their conflict, but among all the victors the power to establish among a great people a form of self-government which the test of experience has shown will endure was bestowed upon Washington, and Washington alone. Many others have been able to destroy. He was able to construct. That he had around him many great minds does not detract from his glory. His was the directing spirit without which there would have been no independence, no Union, no Constitution, and no republic. His ways were the ways of truth. He built for eternity. His influence grows. His stature increases with the increasing years. In wisdom of action, in purity of character, he stands alone. We can not yet estimate him. We can only indicate our reverence for him and thank the Divine Providence which sent him to serve and inspire his fellow men.

You are glad to follow his advice explicitly. You rightly do not question his expert judgment. That is why you can have the fullest confidence in Gude's Pepto-Mangan. For over 34 years it has been prescribed by thousands of physicians as a quick, efficient tonic. Physicians know the tonic power of its special combination of iron and manganese in easily assimilable form. They appreciate the care with which it is prepared, under the supervision of an expert chemist. They know its effectiveness has been demonstrated by hundreds of scientific tests.

Prescribe Gude's Pepto-Mangan for yourself today. Your druggist has it in both liquid and tablet form.

What Doctors Say:

"I often have occasion to prescribe this preparation of liquid iron and Manganese and find it well borne by the average sensitive stomach."

"I think well of Gude's Pepto-Mangan and get good results where indicated. I use it for personal use, occasionally."

Acidophilus Puts Back the Old 'Pep'

Now take it in tasteless tablets

Guaranteed to Conquer Intestinal Putrefaction

NINE out of ten people, authorities state, are victims of Intestinal Putrefaction without knowing it! Yet steadily it undermines health, youth and vigor of body and mind. Intestinal Putrefaction is NOT constipation. It is simply TOO MUCH DECAY of waste food matter in the intestines. Even when bowels move regularly, this excess decay forms more toxic poisons, and often more gas, than the body will freely discharge. The excess poisons enter and pollute the blood. Health, good looks, youthful vitality, strength, sleep and nerves are gradually affected. Serious diseases frequently are later consequences. Biliousness, premature aging, loss of energy, confidence and ambition occur in numerous cases. The excess gas, when present produces such ills as indigestion, pains, bloating, belching, dizziness, sick headaches or bad breath, etc.

Re Supply Your System With Its Natural Acidophilus
Only recently Science has found—in Nature herself—the safe, drugless remedy for Intestinal Putrefaction. This method, used by many physicians, is to adequately resupply the intestines with living, growing organisms of B. Acidophilus. These are tiny protective organisms which Nature gave you in childhood—to keep your bowels pure and safe by STOPPING EXCESS DECAY of waste food.

PLEA TO REOPEN RUDNER CASE IN MELLETT MURDER DENIED
Defense Motion Is Overruled and Arguments Are Begun at Canton, O.

CANTON, O., Feb. 22.—With the evidence all in, counsel for Ben Rudner, on trial accused of the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton editor, asked permission to reopen the defense case, but Judge Agler overruled the motion and arguments were begun.

Henry W. Harter Jr., County Prosecutor, told the jury that one who aids in a murder is equally guilty with the actual killer. He dwelt at length on the legal definition of "conspiracy" in line with the State's contention that Rudner hired the gunmen who killed Mellett.

Mrs. Florence Evans Mellett of Indianapolis, widow of the editor, and her four children were in the courtroom.

ments says the Argentine Government prefers to await the decision of the preparatory disarmament commission, which, meeting under League of Nations auspices at Geneva, has been studying a program for an international disarmament conference.

If that initiative should fail, the Government insists, then the moment will have arrived to consider a solution "less general and perhaps easier of realization." In conclusion the note emphasizes that Argentina maintains the same favorable disposition toward examination of any reasonable limitation of military expenditures as she made known at the Pan-American conference in Santiago, Chile. The reply has been delivered to the American Embassy for transmission to Washington.

JAPANESE IN HAWAII WIN SCHOOL SUIT

Supreme Court, in Unanimous Decision, Declares Law
Unconstitutional.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—The Hawaiian law of 1920 regulating foreign language schools in the islands is declared in a decision by the Supreme Court to be an unconstitutional invasion of the rights of Japanese, who attacked it.
The law, which contains provisions for the licensing of teachers the supervision of text books and the length of school hours not made to apply to public and private schools generally, was found defective as a whole, the court refusing to state whether any of its provisions were valid.
The Japanese, who attacked the law as unconstitutional, obtained an injunction from the Federal District Court in Hawaii temporarily restraining its enforcement. Officials of Hawaii appealed, but the

Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed the action of the District Court, and has been sustained by the Supreme Court.

Justice McReynolds, delivering the unanimous opinion of the Supreme Court, stated that the Japanese parents had the right to direct the education of their children without unreasonable restrictions, and that the plan to bring foreign language schools under direct governmental control, could not be sustained.

The general position of the court
with regard to the rights of parents, teachers and children had been set forth, he said, in cases from Nebraska, Iowa, Oregon and other states.
The fourteenth amendment to Federal Constitution prohibited states from depriving persons of life, liberty or property without due process of law, and the fifth amendment extended the protection against encroachment upon any of these rights in the territorial possessions.

ROYAL EIGHT
by Chandler

WHEN people here like a thing, they like a thing, and show it . . . and are showing it spontaneously and emphatically in the tremendous interest the crowds at the Automobile Show are taking in the new Royal Eight by Chandler — the feature car of a wonderful new line of both Eights and Sixes.

In the midst of all the cars exhibited around it, this magnificent new Eight has undoubtedly had more people standing around it, touching it, getting inside of it, than any other car at the Show.

It's a car that makes you think of Newport, Palm Beach, Paris . . . resplendent in style and beauty . . . endowed with every luxury and every convenience known to the art of body-building . . . and a car that is powerful, smooth and quiet beyond all previous conceptions of power, smoothness and quietness.

Bookings of orders and requests for demonstrations are unprecedented. It is certainly a fact:—This year's Automobile Show is a Chandler Show. And as the saying goes—"There's a reason."

Blue Jay Stand Is Supported at Alumni Meeting

Westminster Alumni Resolution Supports Officials in Eligibility Row.

A resolution, approving the stand taken by officials of Westminster College of Fulton, Mo., relative to the declaration of members of its football team ineligible following a championship season, and expressing the desire that the school do nothing to widen the gap between it and other members of the Missouri Athletic Union, but rather seek vindication in working with other colleges to amend the constitution and by-laws of the organization, was adopted by the Alumni Association of Westminster College at its meeting last night at the University Club.

Another resolution reaffirming the association's confidence in Coach James Packer and his assistant, Brutus Hamilton, was also adopted.

The Westminster players were declared ineligible after the Fulton school had defeated its rival, Central College of Fayette, in the championship game Thanksgiving day. By this action, taken by Prof. F. A. Culmer of Central College, "arbitrator on eligibility" of the athletic union whose constitution gives him full and final power to determine the eligibility of players, Westminster forfeited the championship.

Revision of Control Planned.

A movement has been started to revise the laws governing the union, so that the power of athletic control will be invested in some disinterested person.

Dr. M. E. Melvin of Chattanooga, Tenn., who has been released as general secretary of the General Assembly's Stewardship Committee of the Presbyterian Church in the United States in order that he might accept the invitation to become president of Westminster College, was introduced to the Alumni Association. His appointment as president will be approved formally by the board of trustees of the school at its midwinter meeting this afternoon at the University Club.

He will succeed Dr. E. Reed, who died last August. Reed will take charge of the school June 1.

Western and Peters Advance In Title Series

Second Round Municipal Basketball Games to Be Played Wednesday.

The Western Electric and Peter Hatters quintets were the victors in the first round of the Municipal Basketball league elimination last night at Sherman Park. The Hatters barely defeated the Purina Mills team, 26 to 22, although a decided favorite, and the Western Electric gained a 23 to 25 decision over the Missouri Pacific five in the second game.

Last night's winners will appear in a series round at the St. Louis University gymnasium tomorrow evening. The Hatters opposing Getz Furnishing team and Western Electric quintet playing the St. Louis U. Freshmen. Ford Humphrey and the Leacock, both of whom drew byes in the opening round will play the preceding game.

Play throughout the Hatters-Purina contest last night was only mediocre and neither quintet showed anything like championship form. Following its custom, the first string Hatters lineup did not take the floor until well into the first half when the Purina were leading 9 to 4. The regulars cut down the lead and finally went to the front with a 14-13 score but White's field goal for Purina gave the latter a 15-14 lead as the half ended.

The score was tied on three occasions in the second half although both teams were shooting wildly but Dugan and Fitzgerald field goals gave the Hatters the lead which they held until the gun.

The Missouri-Pacific and Western Electric game was faster and closely contested until the final minutes when the victors drew away to a safe lead. Miller of Western opened the evening's scoring and led the attack that led to an 18-10 score in Western's favor as the half ended. Pacific staged a rally early in the second half and came within 4 points of the lead, putting the score at 24 to 20. Miller added another basket for Pacific. Houge retaliated for the Railroaders with two goals in succession but Miller added three points on free throws and the Westerns drew away to a lead and held their 33-28 advantage until the gun.

Leaders Play in Prep League Tilt

St. Louis U. High and C. B. C. Quintets to Battle Friday Night.

Leaders in the St. Louis Preparatory League will meet Friday night when the St. Louis U. High quintet plays the Christian Brothers College team at the St. Louis gym. The Blue and White is leading the circuit with seven victories and no defeats, while Christian Brothers College is tied for second with six victories and two defeats. Chamaine will play at John Burroughs the same evening.

McBride, now in fourth place, will meet a St. Louis High School League opponent tonight in the Cleveland High basketball squad. In an earlier meeting, McBride took a victory 21 to 15 over the City League quintet, but considerable improvement has since been displayed by Cleveland.

Principia to Oppose Wentworth Quintet

The Wentworth Military Academy basketball team will call for a return game with Principia Academy in Howard Gymnasium Friday night. The Principia squad defeated Wentworth, 27 to 19, in an earlier game. Saturday night, the Central Wesleyan College five, which handed Principia its earlier defeat, will call for a return contest.

Preliminaries are being arranged for both contests. A game between the Principia second team and the Chi Delta Phi fraternity team from Washington U. will probably be Saturday's preliminary. On Saturday afternoon the third team of the Western Military Academy squad will meet the Principia third team.

Fitz Delivers His 'Solar Plexus' Knockout to Corbett in 14th Round

"Ruby Robert," by Robert H. Davis: A Tale of Romance in the Prize Ring.

End Followed Wild Spell by the Champion in Which He Left an Opening for Finishing Blow.

The Story of Fitz

The Post-Dispatch presents herewith the seventh installment of excerpts from "Ruby Robert," by Robert H. Davis, the story of Bob Fitzsimmons. In previous installments, the writer carried Fitz through his training for his fight with Jim Corbett at Carson City, Nev., in 1897, and up to the fourth round of the battle, when Fitz decided the champion could not knock him out.

Installment VII.

BOTH men were singularly cautious throughout the battle, and to my unpracticed eye it seemed either man's fight up to the beginning of the thirteenth round, during the latter half of which Fitzsimmons began to land his blows on Corbett's face. During the mix-up Fitzsimmons shot a short right across his own left guard. One of Corbett's gold teeth fell out, hit the canvas and ricocheted among the boxholders. In this round Bob Fitzsimmons shot four or five times, seeking a chance to plant his left.

Just before the close of the

round Fitzsimmons worked close to Corbett and began to plant body blows. The San Francisco for the first time seemed to be in actual distress, whereas Fitzsimmons was gaining confidence and moving with panther-like alacrity. When the round ended both men were in the middle of the ring. Fitz took his corner with one bound. Before I had an opportunity to ask him a question, he placed his left glove against his right cheek, leaned down close to the post where I was standing and said deliberately:

In Preceding Round Challenger Gave His Secretary a Tip for Bets Which Proved Good Ones.

"Ave you got any money on you?"

"Eighty dollars in gold."

"Bet it all on the next round. I am going to knock 'im out."

And the Bet Was Made.

I JUMPED down, turned to Fred Bushnell, photographer, handed him my own $50 and imparted the thrilling information with instructions to put it all up as fast as he could and in as many directions. There was so much interest centering on the ring at that moment that the little transaction between Bushnell and myself attracted no attention. It was easy for him to place it at odds of two, three, and five to one.

The gong! Fourteenth round. Corbett led and was blocked. He followed with a left at Fitzsimmons' head. Fitzsimmons swung on Corbett's neck and Jim gave ground. Bob stabbed him with a left and a right. Corbett became wild and missed with both hands.

Fitz's Story of Knockout.

THE most accurate description of this fourteenth round came from the lips of Fitzsimmons in dictating his own story of the fight. I quote it herewith as follows:

When the opportunity came in

Bears Play an Improved Game, But Lose Again

Kansas Defeats Washington 27 to 18 in Valley Conference Match.

By the Associated Press.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Feb. 22.—The Kansas University Jayhawkers added another victory to their string by defeating the basketball team of Washington University here last night, 27 to 18. The Jayhawkers led all the way in a game marked by few features except the unerring shooting of the Bears on free throws.

At the half Kansas led, 12 to 8.

What a cigarette Men, what a cigarette!

IF YOU'VE never rolled one with Prince Albert, you have no idea how good a home-rolled cigarette can be. Sure as gun's iron, P. A. makes the niftiest smoke you ever met in the home-rolled line. And the one, big, outstanding reason is that it is better tobacco!

Prince Albert is crimp-cut. It stays put in the paper as you roll it... doesn't float away on the first little breeze. But that's a detail. The big thrill is the taste of a cigarette made with P. A. It is cool and sweet. It is mild and mellow. Every puff is a joy.

The instant you open the tidy red tin and get a whiff of P. A., you know you are in for some grand cigarette-sessions. The breath of hill top air is in it, with sunshine smiling through. You'll roll 'em and smoke 'em from morning to midnight, and relish every one.

Do you sometimes smoke a pipe? Experienced jimmy-pipers will tell you that no other tobacco is like P. A. for pipes. It doesn't bite the tongue or parch the throat, no matter how hard you hit it up. If you want to get the most out of a pipe, put P. A. in it!

PRINCE ALBERT —no other tobacco is like it!

SAYINGS OF MRS. SOLOMON

By HELEN ROWLAND

WHY IS A BACHELOR?

Go to, ye Simple Ones! Come not unto me, saying, "Why is it easier to get a camel through the eye of a needle than to get a bachelor through the door of a church?"

For so long as women continue to make a Single Man's life one long sweet love song, why shall he exchange it for a lullaby?

Consider the SOFT SNAP and the perpetual holiday which are the Bachelor's!

Behold, it so happened that a group of merry-makers held a week-end feast in the woods. And they called it a "Camping Trip."

And lo, all the married women came, bringing roast fowl and home-made bread and cold beverages and hampers of solid food.

And all the damsels came, bringing chocolate and angel food and divers dainties and savories.

And all the married men came, bearing rugs and robes and tents and cushions and camp stools and cooking things.

But the single-footers arrived, clad in white plus-fours and vivid blazers, and full of merriment and pep, withal.

For they carried no burdens and brought only their own Sweet Presence!

And lo, they were greeted with joy and smiles and rapturous welcomes from the women!

Yes, the matrons hovered about them and sought to make them COMFORTABLE. And the damsels said in their hearts, "Thank heaven!"

And while the Married Men put up the tents and built the fire, and unpacked the hampers and spread the rugs and ran to the spring for water, the Bachelors stretched themselves beneath the trees and permitted the women to amuse them and wait upon them and feed them with sweetmeats and flattery and tid-bits.

And when the feast was spread, the Bachelors received the white meat from the fowl and the icing from the cakes, and the cigars from the Married Men's pockets.

And when they had eaten and drunken, the Married Men fell asleep, for they were exceedingly weary!

But the Bachelors flirted with the Matrons and danced with the Damsels; and their feet and their spirits were lighter than summer love. For they were NOT weary!

Go to, ye Simple Ones! To be popular and pampered and petted a Married Man must be exceeding rich or exceeding handsome, or exceeding fascinating.

But a Bachelor need be only—a Bachelor!

And wherefore shall he exchange a Soft Snap and the attentions of all women, for a life-job and the inattention of one woman?

Children's Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Mr. and Mrs. Grouse Come Budding.

It is all in the point of view.
What's wrong to me, is right to you.

—Farmer Brown's Boy.

THE winter had been hard. Yes, sir, the winter had been hard. No one knows quite as well as the little folk of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows how hard the winter can be. Nappy Jack Squirrel, Chatterer the Red Squirrel, Ruffy the Fox Squirrel, and some of the Mouse family, who thrived on the stores of food in the fall, do not have to worry. It is the little people who eat the kind of food that cannot be stored up who learn the real bitterness of winter weather. Every morning they must go out to search for food. If they do not find food, they cannot live.

The one thing that the little folk of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows dread most is an ice storm. You know that is one of those storms when it rains and the rain freezes as fast as it falls. It covers the trees and branches of the trees with a coating of hard ice. It covers everything on the ground with an ice crust. Then, indeed, it is hard for the little people, especially the little feathered people, to find enough food to keep heat in their bodies.

Just such a storm had covered the Green Forest and the Green Meadows with glittering, shimmering ice. It had come late in the winter when food was a little hard to find. Mr. and Mrs. Grouse were fortunate that they were not caught under the crust that formed all through the Green Forest. They had been in the habit of burying themselves in the snow to sleep, but the night before this ice storm Mrs. Grouse had had an uncomfortable feeling. Something had warned her not to go to sleep under the snow. So when Mr. Grouse had said, "Come on, my dear, it is time you went to bed," she had replied, "I am going to sleep up in a spruce tree tonight."

Mr. Grouse had tried to argue. Now Mr. Grouse should have known better than that. Yes, sir, he should have known better than to have tried to argue with Mrs. Grouse. Certainly he had been married long enough to know better. In the end he did exactly as Mrs. Grouse wanted to do. They retired for the night in a spruce tree. They were sheltered under the thick branches and there, side by side, they went to sleep. By and by Mrs. Grouse awoke. It was raining and sleeting. She poked Mr.

Heavy. "There is mighty little to eat around here," complained Mr. Grouse.

Grouse. "Now aren't you glad that you're not down in that snow?" said she.

"Oh, yes," replied Mr. Grouse sleepily. That was all she could get out of him. When they awoke the next morning it was to find everything encased in ice. They shivered. It wasn't that they were cold. They shivered at the thought of what would happen if they couldn't find food. And they knew that finding food would not be an easy matter. "There is mighty little to eat around here," complained Mr. Grouse. "These spruce buds are bitter. I think we'll have to go over to the Old Orchard and get some apple buds."

"They'll be covered with ice," said Mrs. Grouse.

"I know," replied Mr. Grouse. "But we shall just have to break the ice off. It will be easier to get than any other food I know of. Come on, dear."

Mrs. Grouse knew Mr. Grouse was right. The apple buds would be none too easy to get, but they would be easier to get than any other food she could think of. So she and Mr. Grouse hurried away over to the Old Orchard and started in to try to pull their empty crops on apple buds.

MODISH MITZI

Mitzi Discovers Her Life Work

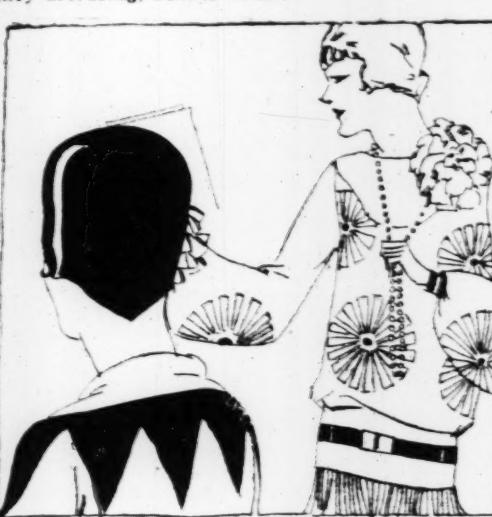

By Jay V. Jay

"Well, it's my own inspiration," answers Mitzi modestly to Polly who is admiring her new two-piece dress. She designed it herself. (The dressmaker made it.) How does one get inspired like that Polly wants to know. Through the V lines they are using, admits Mitzi.

"Would you have designed it differently," Mitzi asks Polly. "No," critically advises her heroine. The embroidered bodice is smart and the peplum of tiny pleats is very new. No, she couldn't have done better herself. "Moreover," Polly, "it is a dress that just suits you."

"You should go into the business, Mitzi," encourages Adelaide, holding one of Mitzi's sketches in mid-air. Adelaide does not forget that she is wearing a new blouse embroidered in circles made of braid. Notice the tight-across-the-hip effect. The skirt is finely pleated.

It's odd what one smart dress will do. Mitzi's black and white costume with the black felt hat, with the white ornaments has set her thinking. She'll be a designer! She has found her career! Next, how much capital is required. Dad is disturbed. He'd rather pay for her clothes.

The Beauty Shop

By Frances Olivier

You could not see the delicately modeled face, the wistful, sky-blue eyes, the figure like a Dresden doll. All you could remember was the damp looking, dark brown hair that fell in clumps and strings like those "shoe strings" of school days.

VISITOR (to beauty specialist)—I am almost tempted to believe that hair is the most important of all. I know I have a nice face and rather attractive eyes and a figure built on standard lines. If nothing more, because my hair looks as if I fed it salad dressing about three times a day. I sit home darning while the others go dancing. When I see a handsome lover in the movies, kissing the adored one's hair or missing it in playful mood, I feel as if my darling does is sealed, really.

BEAUTY SPECIALIST—Some day, just for fun of experimenting, run your hand through your hair after you have been possessed by such optimistic and inspiring thoughts as the sealing of your doom. You will find your hair even softer than usual. Do you know why? Because worry, fear, depression, any excessive mental exercise or emotional upset acts as a direct stimulant to the oil glands. Moral: Worry not, and the fingers of a lover will one day stray through your hair.

The great question, though, among the oil-haired is not "How often may I be permitted the luxury of fussing and styling?" but "How often shall I wash my hair?" And this question has given rise to two great schools, one of which proclaims that washing simply aggravates the oily condition, therefore it is not well to do it oftener than once a week, or, at the most, twice a week.

The other school maintains that with equal firmness that the dust and germs which an oily scalp attracts are far more harmful to the hair than the oiliness itself, and so the hair must be kept clean, washed twice a week if necessary. I personally believe that the course of wisdom lies between these two extremes. Even excessively oily hair need not be washed oftener than eight days, if the washing is done with a shampoo specially prepared for this kind of hair, and if the owner of the oily head is faithful to the daily brushing. A three-minute brushing with a firm bristled brush that is immaculately clean helps greatly toward keeping the hair immaculate. But brush from the inside of the head upward, not from the outside of the hair downward. If you want to get the best results.

Another most excellent way to keep the hair fragrantly clean and fluffy is to cleanse the scalp two or three times a week with tufts of absorbent cotton moistened with one's favorite hair tonic or dandruff remover. An infusion of sage is extremely good for this purpose, except where the hair is fair. Of course, there is nothing on earth so good for sticky hair as to let the wind sweep through it and the sun bake it a bit. Sit by a sunny window whenever you get the opportunity and on days that are not too cold, whip off your hat and let your scalp have a tonic draft of oxygen.

But above all things, watch your nerves. Keep them under control with happy, healthful living and thinking. Runaway nerves do shameful things to beauty, and they are the direct cause of every city head in the world, except those South African varieties, which are oiled from the outside to give them greater allure.

The people never give up their liberties but under some delusion.—Burke.

He that judges without informing himself to the utmost that he is capable, cannot acquit himself of judging amiss.—Locke.

Cookery Definitions.

Baking—Cooking by dry heat. This method is usually carried out in an oven.

Boiling—Cooking to boiling water. The water should continue to bubble. The temperature is 212 degrees Fahrenheit.

Broiling—Cooking in a hot pan without the addition of fat or just enough to prevent burning.

To Braise—To cook in a covered dish with a small amount of liquid. This method is carried out either on a rack or on top of the stove.

Little Miss Malaprop

By Fay Stephenson

MISS MALAPROP always avoided eating bread and butter in public. At a formal dinner it seemed like a messy food to her. But when she attended a afternoon tea given by an English lady she found herself face to face with nothing but bread and butter and tea.

Thin delicate slices of bread. They really did look tempting. But Miss Malaprop cast an eye in vain for the usual tea cakes that Americans serve. Nothing to do but to take the bread, butter it and proceed to eat it.

Miss Malaprop set to work. She was thankful that the butter had reached a stage where it spread easily. Then, slice in hand, she took a bite. As she did so it seemed as if everyone in the room was looking at her. There she was like a school boy, bread in hand, a bite in her mouth!

Miss Malaprop turned scarlet. No one in the room was eating bread and butter that way. She wished the floor would open and swallow her up. Alas, she had learned a bitter lesson. The others were breaking their bread in small bits and buttering each piece before they put it in their mouths.

If your main dish for luncheon is a salad you can increase its food value by adding nuts.

The Man on the Sandbox

The Real George Washington.
GEORGE WASHINGTON, you may have had your faults—And who is there among us that has not?
'Tis rumored that you had been known to wait
And on occasion did the turkey trot.
You might have stepped a stately minuet,
But wouldn't dance the Charleston on a bet.

Your character, some writers may define,
As being of a very human type:
What though you may have liked a glass of wine,
And even enjoyed an after-dinner pipe,
No writing guy has had the nerve, as yet,
To say you ever smoked a cigarette!

And died of a broken heart.

PLEASE PASS THE PRUNE PIE.

SING a song of six-pence, a pocket full of rye,
Six hundred pounds of prunes baked in a pie,
When the pie was opened the guests were in disorder,
Now wasn't that a funny dish to set before a boarder?

Lloyd George says the England-to-America telephone would have been a great help during the war.

DERMERS HOLD FIRST HEARING ON BRIDGE TRADE

Utilities Committee Opens Session to Hear Friends and Foes of Proposed Exchange of Two Spans.

MAYOR AND ARNOLD IN THE ASSEMBLY

Member of Commerce Counsel Recites History of Ordinance, Back to Kiel's Action in 1920.

Advocates and opponents of the exchange of the old bridge and the railroad deck for the Municipal Bridge, between the Terminal Association and the city, gathered in the Board of Aldermen chamber this afternoon for the first hearing to be held before the Public Utilities Committee of the board.

The committee, headed by Alderman E. W. Wiebe, had invited members of the Citizens' Bridge and Terminals Committee, which had been formed to study the proposed exchange of the bridge and the railroad deck, to appear before the committee. Other members of the committee, who were present, were Mayor Miller, Henry S. Caulfield, representing the Alton & Southern Railroad, and S. Kirby, representing the Manufacturers' Railway. C. E. Wilcox, a spokesman of the Citizens' Bridge and Terminals Committee, appeared as counsel for the Merchants' Exchange, to oppose the exchange, and was told he would be heard on a later day.

Wilcox, a spokesman of the Citizens' Bridge and Terminals Committee, appeared as counsel for the Merchants' Exchange, to oppose the exchange, and was told he would be heard on a later day.

Senator H. C. Warren, who had been appointed a committee, the newspapers had made headlines along this line. Arnold said, "I think the Post-Dispatch suggested definitely that the bridge should be sold to the city as a public utility."
